SUICIDE OF DAUGHERTY AID UNDER INQUIRY

Death of Jesse W. Smith Year Ago May Have Been Foul Play

WASHINGTON, March 24.—An investigation was gotten under way today into the year-old suicide of Jesse W. Smith, close friend and confidant of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, as a result of the veiled insinuations cropping out in the Daugherty investigation that Smith may have met with foul play.

J. Ramsay Nevitt, coroner of the District of Columbia, who returned the verdict of suicide, probably will be called before the senate investigating committee, it developed.

Hears Fatal Shot

Smith was found dead on the bathroom floor of the apartment, which he shared with Attorney General Daugherty at the Wardman Park hotel here last May. There was a bullet wound in the temple.

The sound of a shot was heard by Warren F. Martin, special assistant to the attorney-general, in an adjoining apartment, and he rushed in to find Smith, clad in a bath robe, with his hand in a waste basket and a gun beside him. Attorney-General Daugherty was absent, having spent the night at the White House.

Appears Suicide

"It appeared a plain case of suicide to me," said Dr. Nevitt today in explaining why no autopsy was ever held. "There were no suspicious circumstances about the death and I saw no reason for ordering an autopsy."

The testimony of Roxie Stinson, Smith's divorced wife, that prior to his death Smith had told her of his fears that "they are going to get me" has not changed his belief that Smith killed himself, Dr. Nevitt said.

CONTEMPT CHARGE LOOMS IN PROBE

Walsh Asks Indictment of Sinclair for Refusal to Aid Committee

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Indictment of Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate for contempt, will be sought by the Senate public lands committee whom he defied Saturday in refusing to testify in the Teapot Dome oil investigation, it was announced today by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, Sinclair's chief accuser.

The committee this morning resumed its inquiry into "deals" in connection with the Republican national convention in 1920, calling Carmi Thompson of Cleveland, Ohio, as the first witness.

Want Indictment

Senator Walsh said that the committee would recommend to the Senate that Sinclair be cited to the United States attorney for the District of Columbia on the contempt charge, with the recommendation that an indictment against Sinclair be returned by a federal grand jury in Washington.

This would throw the case into the District of Columbia supreme court, where the issue of whether or not Sinclair could be compelled to testify would be fought out.

Masked Bandits Get Piggly-Wiggly Cash

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Three masked men today held up the superintendent and the cashier of a Piggly-Wiggly store on Pennsylvania avenue and escaped with a bag containing between $15,000 and $20,000 in cash.

Glendale!

Glendale's remarkable growth is due to the indisputable fact that it is a REAL city of homes. Here by the green slopes of beautiful hills that look to the sea, and all up and down the level valley that lies directly in the north and south path of Los Angeles-San Fernando valley traffic, and as directly in the east and west path of Hollywood-Pasadena traffic, run parallels and quadrilaterals that are streets solidly built with homes.

Here where magnificent churches raise spires that are seen for miles, where superior school facilities bring pupils from Los Angeles, Burbank and Eagle Rock, where business and investment opportunities cause an ever-increasing influx of wealth—in Glendale is a city possessed to an unusual degree of all those things which bring home-seekers here to stay.

To see Glendale is to create a desire to live here.

FLYERS WORK ON PLANES AT FIELD

New Engine for Lieut. Wade's Ship; Prepare for More Rain En Route

SEATTLE, March 24.—America's round-the-world flyers again enthusiastically plunged into their work today of preparing their giant Douglas world cruisers for their approaching task of circling the globe by air.

Constantly interrupted by questions and requests for photographs by the hordes of people who are visiting the squadron at the Sand Point flying field, the flyers are adjusting new engines and preparing in their mammoth planes for their hop out on March 30 for Prince Rupert.

While reserve aviators hold the crowds spellbound with daring aerial gymnastics, mechanics of the flight are varnishing their planes against probable rain storms of the future.

Lieutenant Leigh Wade has his plane blocked up in a hangar for engine substitution, and Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith is busy inserting new carburetors. Huge pontoons of varnished mahogany are replacing the former landing gear for the water trip.

Hays' Aide Told of Sinclair's Donation

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The story that Harry F. Sinclair gave 75,000 shares of oil stock to help liquidate the huge deficit of the Republican party that remained after the 1920 campaign, came from Joseph J. O'Neill, one of Will Hays' assistants in New York. It was testified before the Senate public lands committee today by Harold V. Vian, a New York Times reporter, author of the story as it appeared in print.

Newlyweds Shooed Home as Happiness Arouses Neighbors

At 1 o'clock this morning Desk Sergeant Timmons received a call from Mr. Willett, 200-A North Louise street, that parties in a car parked in the alley north of Wilson street between Kenwood and Louise streets were disturbing the peace with their loud talk. He reported that they were evidently drunk.

Sergeant Kearns was detailed to investigate, and reported back that they were not drunk with liquor, but with happiness. The couple in question, it turned out, had just been married. After giving them some fatherly advice, Sergeant Kearns sent them home.

CLEAR ROADS AS STORM PASSES

Snowbound Autoists Caught In Mountains to Reach Home Again Today

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—Today dawned clear and cool, with fleecy skies as a promise to shivering Angelenos that yesterday's storm, which drenched most of Southern California and left 200 automobiles snowbound in the mountains, had passed on.

Rescue gangs expected to have the roads re-opened for travel by tonight and the last of the automobile parties marooned when snow covered the mountain highways dug out and started towards home.

Rainfall Varies
Yesterday's downpour, worth millions of dollars to ranchers, gave from a trace of rain at Hemet to 1.40 of an inch at Mount Wilson and .47 in this city.

From two to three and one-half feet of snow was reported at Lake Arrowhead, Pine Crest, Strawberry flat and other mountain stations. Motorists stalled along the roads by the fleecy barriers were able to make their way to resorts and secure shelter.

Glendale's Rainfall Totals One Inch

A steadily falling rain wakened Glendale residents yesterday morning and throughout the day the skies remained gray and rain continued falling, adding 1 inch to the season's rain record. The season's record now stands at 5:48 inches, as compared with 9:53 at this time last season.

These records are furnished by H. E. Bartlett, 323 West Broadway, official weather observer for this city.

EX-DRY OFFICIAL STARTS SENTENCE

Anti-Saloon League Leader Must Serve Term on Forgery Charges

NEW YORK, March 24.—Denying him a certificate of reasonable doubt, Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner today handed down a decision which sends William H. Anderson, convicted former superintendent of the New York anti-saloon league, to Sing Sing at once to commence his one to two year prison term. Anderson was found guilty of forgery in the third degree January 29.

Foils Liberty Plan

The certificate of doubt would have permitted Anderson to remain at liberty on bail pending appeal.

At the time of the arguments on the motion before Justice Wagner, Anderson's counsel, former Governor Charles S. Whitman, announced he was taking steps as rapidly as possible for an appeal which would be made whether or not the motion was denied.

WILBUR AT WORK IN NAVAL OFFICE

Cabinet Member Confers With President for Hour on Policy

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Curtis D. Wilbur of California, the new secretary of the navy, arrived in the Capital today, rolled up his sleeves and went to work.

Navy policies were discussed by Wilbur in an hour's conference with President Coolidge at the White House, and he went from there directly to the navy department to assume his new duties.

WILL ALLOT MONEY FOR FLOODS

Early Action Predicted as Engineer Goes Over Local Watershed

The visit of Frank C. McMillan, assistant to James W. Reagan, county flood control engineer, to Sycamore canyon Friday presages early action on the allotment to be awarded this project in the forthcoming $33,000,000 bond issue, according to V. B. Stone, city manager.

Mr. Stone spent practically the entire day showing the watershed to the county official, and states that the entire project was gone over minutely from one end to the other.

Two-Fold Purpose
Although Mr. McMillan made no statement after his trip of inspection, his visit probably served a two-fold purpose. He will now be in a position to recommend what steps should be taken to best control the flood waters originating in this sector, and what amount should be given to this work under the sum awarded Glendale should the bonds to be voted on May 6, carry.

This amount was placed at $450,000 by Mr. Reagan, flood control engineer, but he made no recommendation as to how it should be split between Sycamore canyon and Verdugo wash.

Although Mr. McMillan made several observations during the day, he did not intimate to Mr. Stone what his recommendations would be. The inspection trip did not include Verdugo wash, as Mr. McMillan took up so much time in Sycamore canyon that he did not have time to visit the other project.

DAUGHERTY PROBE HALTED FOR DAY

Illness of Senator Wheeler Stops Quiz Temporarily As Scores Gather

WASHINGTON, March 24.—With a score of witnesses sitting on the sidelines, awaiting their opportunity to testify to additional stories of intrigue and corruption in Washington life, the Daugherty investigation suffered a temporary lapse today.

It was announced that owing to the illness of Senator Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, the chief prosecutor of the case against Attorney-General Daugherty, and the department of justice, the hearing today would be suspended.

Wheeler's illness was said not to be serious. It is expected the inquiry will go forward again tomorrow. The interim will be used by Daugherty's inquisitors to collect the mass of data and evidence that has poured into the committee from many sources.

Much of it has come from Frank A. Vanderlip's extensive "detective agency" which he has set to work to help the committee.

Wedding In Verdugo Woodlands Recalls Early California Days

MR. AND MRS. ELIAS LUGO of San Gabriel, whose marriage took place Sunday in the historic Old Adobe in Verdugo Woodlands, where Mrs. Lugo's grand aunt, Maria Antonia Leonino Masimo Verdugo, 118 years old, lived as a little girl. Mrs. Lugo, formerly Miss Isabel Verdugo, chose five of her cousins as members of her bridal party. Reading from left to right in the last row: Miss Malvina Verdugo, maid of honor; Mrs. Elias Lugo, Elias Lugo, Elias Verdugo, best man. In front row: Eleanor Verdugo, train-bearer; William Verdugo, ring-bearer; Evelyn Adams, flower girl.

Miss Isabel Verdugo and Elias Lugo Marry In Old Adobe In Shadow Of Rose Tree Planted More Than 100 Years Ago

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff.
Phantom forms of dark eyed senoritas, dashing Spanish caballeros, sandal-footed, brown robed padres and loyal hearted Indians, journeyed yesterday down California's colorful Camino Real of history and romance.

For, in the gray haze of a rainy spring day, the glorious romance of the early days was lived over again in the marriage at the Old Adobe in Verdugo Woodlands, of Miss Isabel Verdugo and Elias Lugo, both of San Gabriel.

Rose Tree Ago—113 Years
The little Old Adobe, nestled at the foot of "The Green Verdugo Hills," was at one time the home of Maria Antonia Leonino Masimo Verdugo, "Mama Nanita," 118-year-old member of The Glendale Evening News Sunset club, and it was most fitting that yesterday her grandniece should wed under the flowering Spanish jasmine rose tree she planted 113 years ago when she was but 5 years old.

There have been many wedding feasts in this real California home, but yesterday will be a date long remembered in history for it records the first marriage ceremony there.

The Glendale Merchants' association met today in their regular weekly meeting at the Presbyterian church, where the regular routine business was carried out. The luncheon was served by the women of the church.

FEDERAL JURY ACTION ON MAGNATE LOOMS

Citation Comes Result of Millionaire's Refusal to Answer Questions

By KENNETH CLARK
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire owner of the Teapot Dome oil lease, this afternoon was formally cited to the Senate for contempt for refusing to answer questions propounded by the Senate public lands committee investigating the leases of ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

It was the first time in years that the Senate committee had chosen such drastic means to require a witness to testify, and the Senate sat in profound silence as Senator Ladd, Republican, of North Dakota, chairman of the investigating committee, read the committee's citation.

When Ladd had concluded, Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, the chief prosecutor in the oil probe, recommended to the Senate that the chief prosecutor in the oil probe, recommended to the Senate that Sinclair be cited for contempt to the United States attorney for the District of Columbia and held for action by a federal grand jury.

Issue Citation

The Senate later held Sinclair to be guilty of contempt.

Sinclair was charged with contempt when he refused to answer questions concerning the lease when he appeared as a witness before the Senate public lands committee on Saturday.

The certification means that the secretary of the Senate will certify Sinclair's contempt to the district attorney of the District of Columbia, who will proceed against the oil magnate under the law governing contempt.

If convicted, Sinclair faces a fine of from $100 to $1,000 or a jail sentence of not more than one year.

BEACH AMERICAN LINER IN CRASH

Collision Off British Coast Sinks Vessel, Kills Members of Crew

LONDON, March 24.—Eight persons were reported killed, one steamship was sunk and another beached in a collision between the United States liner Matanua off the British coast today.

The Matanua, crushed amidships, was sunk.

According to first reports, only two members of the Matanua's crew were killed. A later dispatch from Gravesend to the Standard put the dead at eight. In addition, several were injured. The Albion line issued a statement later today that only one man was killed on board their vessel, but that several other sailors were injured.

FORM NEUTRAL ZONE

WASHINGTON, March 24.—A neutral zone so drawn as to include the American legation at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, has been established, and both sides of the revolution now in progress there have agreed to respect it. Minister Morales notified the state department today.

NAVAL AIR BASE

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The House naval affairs committee today voted unanimously to accept the offer of Sand Point, Wash., as a naval air base for the North Pacific coast. The offer of the site was made to Congress by King county and the city of Seattle.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Pythian Sisters

There will be two affairs of interest this week for Pythian Sisters, first the meeting of the Pythian sewing club on Wednesday, and then the progressive five-hundred party on Saturday night.

Mrs. Nella Fellows, recently elected president of the sewing club, will be hostess to the club all day Wednesday at her home, 421 East Windsor road. The women are to meet at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. At noon there will be a covered dish lunch, with Mrs. Fellows serving coffee and tea. A silver offering will be taken.

The club was recently reorganized at a meeting with Mrs. George E. King of 548 West Hawthorne street. Mrs. Fellows was elected president; Mrs. Rozella Jolliffe, vice president; and Blanch Johnson, secretary-treasurer.

Money realized from the sewing goes to the club treasury. The card party on Saturday night will be a progressive affair with interesting prizes offered. Tickets can be secured by calling Mrs. Fellows at Glendale 2277-J.

Euterpe Club

Margaret Meek of 321 East Maple avenue was hostess Friday night to the members of the Euterpe Music club at their regular meeting for the month of March.

Special music numbers on the program were piano solos: "Romance in F sharp," played by Maxine Heasley, and "Minuet" (Beethoven) by Vera Lockwood.

Plans were completed for a costume party to be given at the home of Mrs. Pearl Curran early in April. Special guests of the occasion will be Mrs. Grace Jackson and her music pupils.

Games for entertainment will be arranged by the club members. Genevieve Merrick was appointed to act as publicity chairman.

Light refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother and sister, Mrs. H. Meek and Miss Henrietta Meek.

East Meets West

Far Eastern culture will be brought to the Tuesday Afternoon club tomorrow by Syud Hosain, East Indian lecturer, who will speak at the club meeting in the afternoon on "Eastern and Western Ideals."

The club meeting will begin at 2:30 o'clock and will be preceded by a food sale in the palm room in charge of Mrs. Homer D. Lockwood.

The speaker of the afternoon comes to America as an orator with an international reputation. He is said to be an authority on the political, economical and cultural relations between the East and the West.

Travel Lecture

A real treat has been arranged by Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, curator of the Tuesday Afternoon club, for Glendale people, for Wednesday morning.

She has secured E. H. Maize of Porterville, to come to Glendale to give his illustrated lecture on "Yosemite Valley" at the clubhouse.

He will speak at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and everyone is invited. A special invitation is issued to children.

There will be no admission charge.

Meet Wednesday

The American Citizenship and Legislative department of the Tuesday Afternoon club, of which Miss Ida D. Myers is curator, will continue their study of the Constitution Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the tea room of the clubhouse. Mrs. H. W. Duncan will present as her subject "John Quincy Adams and His Connection with the Constitution."

Mrs. C. W. Houston will discuss the child labor bill now pending in Congress.

Dance Tonight

C. J. Anglin is chairman of the committee arranging the dancing party, to be given tonight in the Hahn auditorium at 109-A North Brand boulevard by the Security Benefit association, No. 3696. Assisting him are Mrs. Julia Anglin, Mrs. D. C. Stombs, Mrs. Mabel Duvall, Mrs. George Stombs and Mrs. George Robinson.

A fine orchestra has been secured and a delightful time is assured all those attending.

Frolic in Snow

W. H. Flynn, of 331 El Bonito street celebrated his birthday anniversary on Sunday with a frolic in the snow at Pine Flats.

Mr. and Mrs. Flynn and sons Billy and Jackie, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Chambers, Mrs. Helen Cummins, Herschel Cummins, Grace and Stanley Kemp, all of Inglewood made up the party which helped Mr. Flynn to celebrate.

DEALERS, ATTEND

At Pastor's Home

Rev. H. C. Mullen, pastor of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church, and Mrs. Mullen were hosts last Friday night at a delicious dinner party, when covers were laid for forty-five guests, including the members of the official board of the church, members of the choir, Sunday school board and teachers and Epworth League.

A dainty color scheme of pink and green was artistically carried out in the scheme of decoration. Pink place cards and bonbon baskets in the same shade marked the guests' places.

After dinner, plans were discussed relative to the holding of evangelistic services in the church beginning April 6 and continuing for two weeks, closing on Easter Sunday.

W. H. Bott gave a short talk in behalf of the Sunday school and Mrs. D. McGill spoke for the Epworth League, while Attorney George Moore represented the choir. H. L. Adams told in a clever manner what the men of the church could do, challenging the women of the church. Mrs. George Moore answered for the women, telling of the many things they could do.

Rev. W. G. Cowan gave a splendid talk pertaining to evangelistic work, giving suggestions for the members to assist in the great campaign which they are about to undertake. All the guests pledged themselves to aid the pastor in every way possible during the two weeks' services.

This was undoubtedly one of the most enjoyable affairs given during the year in which the Sunday school and church officers and teachers and other active workers of the church have participated, and a feeling of good fellowship was manifested by all.

Woodmen Dance

The second of the bi-monthly dances to be given under the auspices of the Glendale camp No. 12886, Modern Woodmen of America, will be held tonight in the camp hall, corner of Park and Brand boulevard. Everything is in readiness and a big time is assured for all. This affair promises to be as successful an event as the one given last month.

White this is not a public dance, a cordial invitation is extended to all friends and members of the society and visiting Woodmen and Royal Neighbors are requested to attend and join in the good time.

A fine six-piece orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing. The camp clerk, Attorney Henry Moiz, urges all members to be present at 7:30 o'clock to participate in a short business session preceding the dance. All members are requested to attend tomorrow night the presentation of "Eljah" by the oratorio section of the Glendale Music club. The bi-monthly dance is being held tonight in order not to interfere with the presentation or the success of this splendid oratorio.

Tropico Church

Social activities of the Tropico Presbyterian church the past week included a social affair given by The Women's Bible class, of which Mrs. Frank Ashton is teacher, at the home of Mrs. Walter Perry, on East Palmer street. Games and music were the diversions, the guests being the husbands of the members of the class.

On Friday night the Christian Endeavor society of the church held a business meeting in the social hall of the church and elected the following officers: president, Frances Goldsborough; vice president, Louise Perry; secretary, Dorothy Olmstead; treasurer, Ruth Goldsborough; social chairman, Mildred Tubbs.

Gives Luncheon

Miss Vivian Noy of 1817 Fremont Avenue, South Pasadena, entertained a number of friends from Glendale Saturday at a party at 1 o'clock luncheon and Mah Jongg party. The guests were the Misses Lucile Beach, Marjorie Hart, Marjorie Temple, Carolyn Ayars, Fredericka Browne, Wilma Gosser and Beryl Goodale.

The hostess is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Noy, formerly residents of Glendale, who sold their home on North Central avenue a few months ago and moved to South Pasadena. They have made definite plans to return to the city within a few months and will build in the foothill section.

Sunday Wedding

Miss Dorla Belle Doolittle of Chico, Calif., and Clarence A. Baker of 609 East Windsor road, were united in marriage yesterday morning, Sunday, March 23, 1924, by Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, at the parsonage, 132 South Kenwood street.

Miss Zilpha Doolittle, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Baker will make their home at 609 East Windsor road. Mr. Baker is associated with the Southern California Gas company in Los Angeles.

Girl Scouts Meet

Girl Scout members of Troop 3 met Saturday afternoon at the home of their captain, Mrs. R. C. Horner, 432 West Broadway, when the rehearsal of the play, "The Taming of Horrors," was held.

A short business session was held and later a delicious supper was served by Mrs. Florence Wintertgill and Mrs. Horner to the 25 members present.

The rest of the evening was devoted to an informal social time.

CHILDREN SCORE HIT IN OPERETTA GIVEN FOR P. T. A.

Present 'Hansel and Gretel' At School, More Than Eighty In Cast

The days of "once upon a time," when fairies danced in the forest green and witches dwelt in sugar houses, guarded by gingerbread children, were pictured in beautiful scenes and tableaux in "Hansel and Gretel," the four-act operetta, staged with success by the pupils of Colorado Street school Saturday at Glendale Avenue school for the benefit of the Colorado Street School Parent-Teacher association.

More than eighty children participated, with every grade in the school represented. The costuming was especially good, and the forest scene made an attractive setting for the groups of children in quaint Dutch costumes, the little fairies in their dainty gauze, the gingerbread children in grown, the little imps in red, the peasants in bright colors, and the floral girls in the various picturesque folk dances.

Elnora Melgreen and Fred Paseman were charming in the leading parts, Gretel and Hansel, and Katherine Girard a most realistic witch. "The Burgomaster," sung by Elliott Calvert, "The Sugar House," by Brandon Bronnberg, and "The Sandman's Song," by Robert Woodard, were pleasing numbers.

Complete Cast
The complete cast included the following: Hansel, Fred Paseman; Gretel, Elnora Melgreen; the witch, Katherine Girard; mother, Tillie Leek; father, Leslie Girard; burgomaster, Fred Paseman; Otto, Brandon Bronnberg; Johannes, Alden Foster; Hugo, Frederick Hughton; sandman, Robert Woodard; playmates (Dutch costumes), Mary Jane Neel, Myrtle Woolf, Juanita Gilbert, Ethel Reeves, Janice Redman; floral girls, Raymona Full, Catherine Dotson, Estelle Scott, Evelyn Fisher; dancers, Marie Louise Brown, Gwendolyn Raugh, Ruth Reed, Jane Smith, Rhodora McKee, Beryl Campbell, Roberta Taylor, Margaret Baruch, Cleone Barton; peasants, Saunders Grace, Ethel Reeves, Robert Stadler, Horace Turner, Evanthe Boudais, Isabel Elliott, George Caljabec; fairies, Nina Randolph, Winifred Walker, Thelma White, Carol Whistler, Carolyn Cantourne, Dorothy White, Margaret Dotson, Teyia McBroom, Martelle McKee, Claudine Noelle, Marjorie Gilbert, Frances Ashby, imp, Bobby Turner, Irwin Walker, Homer Girard, Raymond Leeks, Herbert Strong, Robert Hughton, Bart Melgreen, Donald Hunter, Edward Teisworth; gingerbread children, Barbara Parr, Mary Jane Gillan, Winifred Melzer, Catherine Foster.

Special Programs
A program of special numbers was presented during the intermissions, including a solo by the Glendale Avenue school orchestra directed by Miss Elsa Brennaman; saxophone solos by Adeline Woodbury; Grecian dance by Jane and Alice Leighton; and Marie Louise Brown, who gave an artistic Dutch dance and a second number, "Under the Moon." The kindergarten contribution to the program included numbers by a gay little orchestra composed of fifteen small performers, with harmonicas, horns and drums, and an attentive director, with his baton. Ethel Reeves and Mary Jane Neel were announcers.

The entire staff of teachers of the school, who assisted in training the pupils and directing the performance, are: Ida C. Waite, principal; Nell S. Zweifel; Louise Fambrough, June Hamill, Alice M. McCoy, Bessie C. Ross, Muriel P. Wilson and Lillian N. Brandon.

Members of the kindergarten orchestra were: Jane Althouse, Jean Daniels, Helen Day, Charlotte Hasch, Dora Lahl, Flora Alice Molen, Cora and Everett Woodward, George Arnold, Griffith Barlow, Richard Barton, Churchill Bohnannon, Billy Coleman, Claude Frohm, Stewart Griffith, Merritt Grimes, Billy Marshall, John Marucci, Harold Parker, Minot Rudolph, Richard Swizeski and Forbes Whistler as the little director.

Miss Reva Hutchins served as the pianist during the program.

COMMENT That's All

More Rain, More Smiles Prosperity in Southland Power With the People Watch Out for China

By Gil A. Cowan
More rain, more smiles, more prosperity. Southern California is entering another season of abundance, crops having been assured by the sufficiency of water—a little late, perhaps, but here.

With the assurance of good crops, the time is ripe for bankers and business men, builders and buyers, to get busy and prepare for the harvest. Southern California drives "straight ahead" in progress and prosperity.

However, we want to tell people in the east about it. We not only are convinced ourselves, but we should carry that conviction back to our friends in the east. If you are planning a trip "back home," be sure and carry with you the message of optimism that California has for everyone.

If you are to remain at home and want to do some constructive boosting, consider the county commission bond issue as the next most necessary step in progress. The fundamental need of flood control is so apparent that we take pleasure in speaking thereof. J. L. Matthews, a Covina editor, writes:

"Let's stop procrastinating in this matter of controlling flood damage and conserving our resources—water for the lands and for the growing communities. There was reason for delay and inaction once—there is no reason remaining now."

"The writer most earnestly believes that these conservation bonds will pay for themselves ten times over in the increase in valuation of lands now menaced directly or indirectly by floods. This newspaper also firmly believes that if these great conservation reservoirs are built we will be astounded at the tremendous wealth in stored water that will accrue to this county. This newspaper believes that electric energy is a greater commodity than is realized from these stored waters. Voting these bonds at the May election will mean the expenditure of a dollar in order that ten dollars may come back to us."

"In this particular community there is nothing so important as this question. Think about it seriously—talk about it—and give the committee that support with which it cannot win in any forward-looking enterprise. The time to act is now."

We echo the sentiment:
Two articles which have arrested our attention recently come from diverse points. The Pasadena Star-Knows says editorially regarding "Power With the People":
"Too many persons live and die in this glorious land without proper comprehension of the American system of government. They look upon the government of the United States as a vague, far-off power, influenced and entirely apart from them and distinct from them, and only touching them—sometimes acceptably and sometimes unacceptably—in the affairs of life—but touching them from outside, as an exterior element in the affairs of life. Hence, praise or condemnation of government is given by them supposedly to something created and maintained, as it were, by forces and influences foreign to them. This conception of government is deadening to patriotic impulses and is mischievous in its fruits, because it leads this class of persons to neglect, to have no interest in political affairs, other than as an extraneous thing with which they have no concern."

ORATORIO WILL BRING FAME TO THIS CITY

Presentation of 'Elijah' by Music Club Tuesday Night Big Event

Fame is to be brought to Glendale's name again, by the success tomorrow night of the presentation of Mendelssohn's great oratorio "Elijah," by the Glendale Music club under the direction of John Smallman. The event will take place in the auditorium of the Broadway High school, and it is anticipated that a crowd unequalled in the past, both as to numbers and appreciation, will be gathered to greet the great chorus.

There will be 150 voices in the chorus, sixty-five of them being from Mr. Smallman's chorus in Los Angeles. Assisting will be a group of talented soloists and selected pieces of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra.

Four As Soloists
The soloists will be: Monnie Hastings, soprano; Florence Midgach, contralto; Harold Proctor, tenor; and Fred McPherson, who will sing the part of Elijah. A special stage has been arranged in the High school auditorium to accommodate the chorus, which met yesterday for the final rehearsal with the soloists and the orchestra.

Mrs. Perry Rogers, pianist of Glendale, is serving as accompanist.
Secure Good Director
It has been a gigantic task to arrange for the inauguration of an annual oratorio presentation in Glendale, and to Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Music club, her officers and the club members, goes great credit for the executive ability they have displayed.

When the oratorio project was first considered Mrs. Jones saw that its success or failure rested with the director chosen. She knew of the nation-wide reputation of Mr. Smallman, and in order that Glendale might have his services she gave $300 of the amount necessary for his salary for the oratorio direction.

Subscribe To Expenses
Then there was the expense of the soloists and orchestra, and in order to finance them $600 will be necessary before the doors open tomorrow night. The plan was made for securing subscribers to this fund and at the present time Mrs. Jones states that the required amount is in view.

Those who have subscribed are: Dr. Henry Harrower, $25; Mrs. Ella Richardson, $25; W. E. Hewitt, $25; George Bentley, $25; E. C. Pendroy, $25; Frank L. Fox, $25; D. H. Smith, $25; Miss Myrtle Baldwin, $20; Roberts & Echols, $15; R. F. Kitterman, $10; Roy L. Kent, $10.

Then there have been countless persons taking patron tickets, and to the list of patrons already announced in The Glendale News may be added the names of Mrs. Margaret Leppelman and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Puffer, Sr.

Bakery With Rotating Ovens Will Be Opened

J. P. Ludwig, who recently came to Glendale from the east, where he was extensively engaged in the bakery business, will shortly open a "New System" bakery at 217 East Broadway, with a special type of rotary ovens installed in the front of the store, so that all baking operations will be plainly visible from the front windows.

Two trucks will be placed in service, Mr. Ludwig states, for house to house distribution of the New System products, which will include bread, pastries and a special line of the finer French type goods, for parties and banquets.

This is the first of a chain of such bakeries Mr. Ludwig plans to install throughout Southern California. The opening date of the store at the above address will be announced later.

Shortage of houses in New Zealand has caused the living together of several families in poor cottages, for which excessive rents are charged.

Postpone Meeting of Chamber of Commerce

The directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce have postponed their regular weekly meeting for this week till Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, on account of the performance of the oratorio "Elijah" by the Glendale Music club at the Broadway High school, and also on account of the Fathers' and Sons' banquet that is to be given by the H-Y club at the Presbyterian church.

James W. Reagan, chief engineer of the Los Angeles county flood control commission, will be present at the Wednesday night meeting of the board to discuss the best methods of handling the runoff from the mountains in this region.

BUICK'S OPENING DRAWS THROGS TO GALA AFFAIR

Tanner & Hall Are Hosts at Brilliant Reception to Crowd of Friends

Fully 5000 people had the pleasure Saturday of attending the opening of Tanner & Hall's new Buick building at the corner of Maple street and Brand boulevard—a joyous event for the members of the firm and their staff of sales and shop assistants.

In the afternoon hundreds of friends dropped in to congratulate Messrs. Tanner & Hall, and many fellow dealers and business men presented beautiful floral tributes of esteem to the Buick dealers for Glendale and Eagle Rock.

Huge Search Lights
But it was in the evening that the great throng filled the spacious building, while great kilig lights lighted the skies and ares of flood lights turned night into day, illuminating the exterior of the new building like a fairy castle. It was the work of Otto Oelsen's motion picture lighting apparatus.

And inside of the building the strains of music lent a charm to the display of cars, while hundreds of people were dancing on the garage floor. Paul Tisworth and his syncopators, the finest musicians obtainable by William Bode, who formerly played with Art Hickman's organization, provided the music. There was punch also, making the affair quite complete.

Both William A. Turner and Harry E. Hall were on hand to greet their many friends, and the latter said: "This event shows that the people are with us in this enterprise. It was not our purpose of getting business, but renewing old friendships and making new acquaintances in this fast growing city."

Sales Force Help
Ray L. Galvin, sales manager for the Buick here, was largely responsible for the arrangements. He is to be highly praised for his efforts. Gus Pulliam, John Weaver, Jack Martini and other members of the sales force were present, making new acquaintances, while Mrs. Irma Dale, bookkeeper for the firm, also played a part in the reception of the crowd, as did Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Hall.

On the floor, F. W. Park, shop foreman; J. E. Lampher, Arch Gilles, E. H. Gilles, F. A. Harrell, B. Galbraith, W. A. Brown, Charles Stuart, Dell Blumenkrantz, Dave Walton, H. R. MacMillan and John Eckert aided in making the guests comfortable. They were attired in the natty white Buick service uniforms.

Casa Verdugo Choir Visit L. A. Cathedral

A number of members of the boys' vested choir of Casa Verdugo Methodist church motored to Los Angeles Sunday morning and attended the service at St. Paul's Pro-cathedral especially to hear the singing of the boys' choir of that organization. Arrangements for the visit were made in advance by Waldo Winger, Sr., and the choir, Mr. E. Fitch, Eugene Coquet, their boy soprano, sang one number as a special compliment to the visitors from Glendale.

Members of the party were: James Mace, Lloyd Smith, Ennis Olmsted, Robert Keller, Robert Whitten, Claude Slate, Billy and Paul Light, Oscar, Billy and Frank Newby, Waldo Winger, Jr., Gordon Amblett, Miss Gladys Sharpe, Messrs. O. M. Newby, Waldo Winger, Sr., G. Amphlett.

MINOR OPERATION

Miss Jane Brennen of 519 North Central avenue, underwent a minor surgery operation this morning, March 24, at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

OPENING OF NEW STATION MILESTONE IN GLENDALE HISTORY

Prominent Officials of Southern Pacific Railroad to Be Present for the Ceremonies

The new Southern Pacific station shown in the above picture, located at the head of Cerritos avenue, will be officially dedicated at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, March 27, when important officials of the railroad will participate in a program being arranged by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. President W. E. Hewitt of that body will preside over the meeting, states Secretary Eugene F. Sanders. The following officials of the Southern Pacific Railroad company will be present and make brief addresses: T. H. Williams, assistant general superintendent; S. S. McGinnis, general passenger agent; J. T. Saunders, assistant freight manager; Arthur Rehbold, district passenger agent; Henry L. Legrand, local agent; and Clyde Thedaker, local station agent. There will be a large number of prominent people present from Los Angeles, Hollywood, Burbank, Pasadena and other points in the San Fernando valley and the occasion will be a milestone in the history of Glendale.

BUSINESS MEN, CITY OFFICIALS BOOST ORATORIO

Praise Coming Production
As City's Finest Musical Event of Season

"May Glendale listen with pride tomorrow night, when 150 voices sound forth in the production of the oratorio, 'Elijah,' at the Broadway High school. As mayor of the city I commend the production most highly, and urge all Glendaleans, old and young, to attend," said Spencer Robinson.

"The production of 'Elijah' in the manner contemplated puts Glendale in the grown-up class of cities, and to Mrs. Mattison B. Jones is due much more than mere thanks," said Dr. Henry Harrower.

"I'm glad to be a patron of the oratorio 'Elijah' in Glendale. Every business man in Glendale should back this project and take his family and friends to hear this oratorio, the biggest and finest musical event every staged in the San Fernando valley. It has already added to the fame of Glendale. It has shown to the world that while making monstrous strides in a business way, Glendale has also outstepped other cities of its class in musical achievement," declared D. H. Smith.

Praise Is Given
This is how Glendale city officials, professional and business men feel in giving their earnest support to the production tomorrow night of the production of Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah."

Over 200 more tickets were sold on Saturday and many more fine seats are available. The final rehearsal was held yesterday at the high school.

Funeral Services for Pioneer Woman Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ann Colton of 506 Varney street, Burbank, who died Friday, March 21, 1924, at the age of 86 years, were held at 10 o'clock this morning, Monday, March 24, at the Mark Pierce funeral parlors, Los Angeles, with interment in Evergreen cemetery.

The deceased was the widow of the late Charles Colton, who served under General Cook at the Plaza flag-raising in 1847. She was one of the pioneers to California, coming here from Utah in a covered wagon in 1859.

Mrs. Mary Ann Colton was born January 10, 1838, in Ohio. She is survived by four sons: William L. Colton of Glendale, Joseph F. Colton of Burbank, Frank B. Colton of Los Angeles and Charles Colton daughters, Mrs. Ella R. Denny of Santa Barbara, and by two Oakland and Mrs. Mae E. Sellers of Los Angeles.

Many Write Reasons Why They Came To Live Here

Replies to the request made by The Glendale Evening News in its issue of Saturday, March 22, asking the citizens of Glendale who came here from other communities to say just why they decided to settle in Glendale, are already beginning to pour in.

Every writer has given his or her reasons on WHY I CAME TO GLENDALE, and nearly all of them show that Glendale was selected as a home place only after careful comparison with other Southland communities.

Why did YOU come to Glendale? There must have been some definite reason why YOU brought your family to Glendale and cast your lot in with those who had already made their homes here.

The Glendale Evening News is offering three cash prizes for the best letters telling why their writers settled here. The first prize will be $25, the second $15, and the third $10, and the only condition is that the letters must not exceed 150 words in length. Employees of this newspaper and members of their families are barred from participating.

The contest will close March 29, and all replies must be in before that time, addressed to GLENDALE EDITOR, The Glendale Evening News, 139 South Brand Boulevard, Glendale, Calif.

TUJUNGA DANCE TO RAISE FUNDS FOR CLUB

Informal Affair Is Planned
At the Masonic Hall on Wednesday Night

The Tujunga Women's club will entertain tomorrow night, March 25, with a dance and card party in the new Masonic hall, the proceeds of which are to be applied toward the building fund for the new clubhouse.

Everything is in readiness for the affair, which is to be very informal. It is announced, and anyone wearing formal or semi-formal dress will be subject to a heavy fine.

Kimpel's orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing, and tables will be arranged for five-hundred and bridge for those wishing to play cards. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

Success In Sight

The Women's club is in great need of a clubhouse, and, through the untiring efforts of the members, it has been made possible for them to complete the plans and final details for the new clubhouse, which will be erected on San Ysidro street, one block east of the American Legion hall and postoffice. It is expected they will break ground this week and that construction work will begin.

Tickets for the affair tomorrow night may be secured at the door, it is announced. A cordial invitation is extended to all members and their friends to attend.

The art section of the club will meet Thursday afternoon, March 27, at the art studio of Mrs. Laura Sweet on Michigan avenue. It is announced. As this is art week, a special program has been arranged. All members are urged to be in attendance.

Trans-Atlantic cable costs $15,000,000.

ROTARIANS BACK FROM SAN JOSE DISTRICT MEET

Local Members Bring Word Of Lecture Series by Dr. Charles Barker

Bringing back with them glowing accounts of a very helpful and inspiring meeting, the vanguard of Glendale Rotarians who attended the annual convention of the Rotary clubs of the Second district, held at San Jose, last week, returned home yesterday morning. In the party were President George B. Karr, A. R. Eastman, Roy L. Kent, Daniel Kelly, George U. Moyle and J. I. Wernette.

Others from this city in attendance were Francis J. K. Henry, J. Herbert Smith and William Hunter. They made the trip in autos, accompanied by their wives, and plan to visit points of interest in that section of the state before returning home.

Dr. Barker Secured

They were especially elated over the fact that they induced Dr. Charles Barker, one of the foremost lecturers in the country, and personal physician to ex-President William Howard Taft, to give three addresses in Glendale on Friday, March 28. At 11 o'clock in the morning he will address the high school students, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon he will talk to women only. In the evening, at 8 o'clock, he will address an audience composed of men only. All the lectures will be given in the auditorium of the Broadway High school.

Dr. Barker's lectures will deal with the relationship of boys and girls and men and women, a topic of vital interest to the country today, said President Karr this morning. Mr. Karr has had the privilege of hearing Dr. Barker, and declares that his lectures are very fine, and a treat that no one in Glendale should miss.

Outside of the regular convention routine, Paul Rieger of San Francisco, district governor, found time for plenty of fun, state the delegates. One feature of the convention was the meeting held at Stanford university and Palo Alto, participated in by the 2500 delegates and visitors. Mr. Karr says that the meeting held in the historical setting of the university buildings and campus left an impression that will never be erased from his memory.

Francis Henry led the entire audience in community singing, and A. R. Eastman placed well up in the golf tournament, according to Mr. Karr.

Harry Mason, president of the Los Angeles Rotary club, was nominated district governor. He will be voted on at the international convention in Toronto next June.

Department Called as Brush Fire Scattered

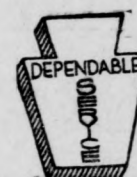

The fire department was called Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock to extinguish a brush fire at 532 East Cypress street. The blaze, caused by some burning rubbish, it is thought, had spread considerably and caused the residents of the vicinity some alarm. No damage resulted, according to Fire Chief Lankford.

BROADWAY CLUBS HOLD JOINT MEET

Discuss Improvement Ideas
At P.-T. A. and Fathers' Auxiliary Session

The members of the Broadway fathers' auxiliary held a joint meeting last Friday night in the school house, with the president of the latter organization, R. M. Ferguson, in charge.

Many matters of importance were discussed, the most important being ways and means by which the auxiliary and the association might become more closely associated. A committee of three women and three men was appointed to confer with the parliamentarian and the federation in this connection. A committee was also appointed to look after pool halls in Glendale, and to take up the matter with the police department of children being on the streets after the curfew hour.

Mrs. M. Ryan, principal of the school, expressed the appreciation of teachers and members of both organizations of the protection given the school children by traffic officers. The committee in charge of the vaudeville show recently staged by the fathers' auxiliary reported a net profit of $300.

A committee was appointed to look after purchasing shrubs and plants and other needed things for the school. It was also voted to donate $7.50 toward the permanent fund for the Glendale schools.

Luncheon Planned

Plans are under way for serving a luncheon to the school children by the association members on April 3, the proceeds to be given to the fund for purchasing a cocoanut palm for the school. All mothers who will be able to assist are asked to communicate with the school.

It was also voted by the association members to give $5 to the federation to help defray the expenses of the university lecture course. This makes it possible for the Broadway mothers to attend these lectures free of charge, and it is hoped that they will avail themselves of this opportunity.

The rest of the evening was devoted to an informal social time, when an old-fashioned box social and spelling match were enjoyed. The Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist church will hold a farewell at the church on Wednesday evening after the prayer service in honor of Mrs. E. D. Potter who is shortly to remove from Glendale. Mrs. Potter is one of the early members of the church and has already taken an active part in church work and made many friends.

Rain Prevents Services At New Sanitarium

LATEST DISCOVERIES OF SCIENCE ARE INSTALLED

Modern Appliances and Methods Brought Into Use to Alleviate Suffering and Help Patients Find Health and Vigor

By W. L. BURGAN
 Written for The Evening News

For the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital has been equipped to care for many kinds of ills is evident from explanations given by those in charge of the hydrotherapy building, the medical building, and the sanitarium building proper.

It is also equipped so that young men and women who have chosen the nursing profession as a vocation have excellent opportunities for the prosecution of their studies in a training school that is provided with modern class and demonstration rooms and full equipment.

The hydrotherapy building, which immediately joins the medical building, is taken up entirely on the first and second floors by the treatment rooms, which have been scientifically equipped with modern appliances, and the necessary auxiliary rooms.

Each of the treatment rooms has been divided by glazed brick walls that extend up to two-thirds of the height of the ceiling. With in the center section, the floors are of terrazzo, and the walls are a bulwark, as it were, against any water getting away, and wetting the other sections of the treatment rooms.

Rooms for Women
 The first floor is for the treatment of women, while the men's rooms are on the second floor. In each section, either for men or women, from seventy-five to one hundred patients can be treated in three hours' time. Each treatment room has thirty-six dressing rooms, twenty-eight treatment booths, two fomentation tanks, four sprays, four electric light cabinets, six salt glows, six leg baths, two Russian baths, and hydro-electric apparatus for sinusoidal, faradic and galvanic treatments.

They are also equipped with four shower baths, sauna booths and carriers to take patients to the treatment rooms who cannot walk from their beds. An explanation of the science of the different kinds of treatments given in this institution certainly is a revelation of the virtue in such methods.

The salt glow is given as a tonic treatment. Salt is rubbed vigorously on a patient as he sits on a chair until his circulation is brought to the surface. This relieves congestion, and tones up the system. For a sitz bath, the patient sits in a tub made along scientific lines for this kind of a treatment, and the whole pelvic region is immersed in hot water, the idea being to relieve pain and congestion in that section of the body. It is especially effective for cystitis or bladder trouble. An ice bag is applied to the head and a cold cloth placed around the neck and head. The feet are placed in hot water, not only in this particular treatment, but in all water treatments, as well as electric cabinet treatments, the virtue being to get an even circulation of the blood throughout the body.

The Russian bath consists in the immersion of the body in steam which is suspended as a thick fog in the Russian room. The patient lies on a heated marble slab, and the steam is then turned on. His head is kept cold, and an ice bag is placed over his heart. The heat becomes stronger and stronger as he gets accustomed to the temperature. This is an excellent eliminative treatment prescribed in cases of auto-intoxication and for rheumatism, as it opens the pores, and brings about the elimination of poisons. Sometimes during the treatment the steam is medicated. The patient is allowed to inhale this medicated steam, and this procedure has been found to give relief in bronchitis and colds.

The leg bath is a good derivative treatment which draws the blood from the head and other parts of the body, relieving congestion, headaches, varicose veins, and is a good circulatory stimulant. The legs are first immersed

VISION OF FORMER DAYS ATTAINS ITS FULFILLMENT

Pioneers of Twenty Years Ago Had Faith In Glendale's Future as Place Where Sufferers Would Seek New Health

There is a history connected with the establishment and development of the medical work promoted by the Seventh-Day Adventist denomination in Glendale, which clearly indicates that those responsible for the construction of the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital have displayed a faith, from the very beginning of their work in this city, that could never be questioned.

Coming here just twenty years ago, with a nucleus of not more than thirty members in the denomination, the leaders felt that Glendale would some day become a health center of such wide proportions that its reputation would spread, and men and women from all over the United States, and from different foreign lands would seek restoration to health here.

The few who still remember that day in 1904, when a committee came into Glendale, and completed the purchase of the property now known as the old sanitarium, rejoice over the manner in which thousands of persons have been relieved of their bodily sufferings, and have not only told their relatives, friends and neighbors within speaking distance of the virtues of the sanitarium treatments, but have written to the four corners of the earth to persons to come here if they desired relief from pains and other ills.

The entire block bounded by

Broadway, Isabel, Jackson and Wilson street, with the main building of the old sanitarium standing about in the center was purchased from L. C. Brand for $12,000. This one building was known as the Glendale Hotel, and previous to that the structure was used as a seminary.

As to the early history of the building, John C. Sherer has written some interesting facts in his book entitled "Glendale and Vicinity," which are here reproduced:

"St. Hilda's Hall, a School for Girls," opened in the Glendale hotel building February 3, 1889, under the rectorship of Rev. Thomas Haskins, who acted as rector and teacher of ancient history and the Bible. In the latter part of 1890, or early in 1891, he was succeeded by Rev. John D. Easter, who became a resident of Glendale and rector of St. Mark's church. The school opened with about thirty pupils and three residents.

C. E. Kimlin, business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, became connected with the institution in that capacity December 15, 1915. He had come to Glendale from Seattle, Wash.

HUNDREDS VISIT BUILDING ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

Dedication Ceremonies Will Take Place On May 18, Is Decision; Visiting Officials Are Entertained With Dinner

By H. THOMPSON RICH
 Of The Evening News Staff.

Hundreds of visitors braved the rain yesterday afternoon only to learn that the extensive exercises at the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital had been postponed until May 18. Many of the friends of the institution, including several speakers on the program, had come from distant points, notably Elder A. G. Daniells of Washington, D. C., secretary of the foreign mission board of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination.

The decision to postpone the opening exercises was arrived at after careful consideration by a joint session of the sanitarium board and the Pacific Union conference executive committee. Inasmuch as the exercises were of an outdoor nature, the unsettled weather made it impracticable to carry them out.

Many Inspect New Plant
 The visitors, however, did not return home entirely disappointed for the management arranged for them to be escorted through the great plant by a staff of white-uniformed guides, each department of the institution being explained in detail.

C. E. Kimlin, business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, and Dr. H. G. Westphal, medical superintendent of the institution, both expressed themselves as much surprised that so many visitors should have braved the storm to attend what they thought would be the opening exercises. Fifty rooms in the new plant were occupied by guests, Mr. Kimlin stated.

To Remove Patients

It is now planned to move all patients from the old buildings during the week of March 31 to April 5. Meanwhile work on the new building will be rushed to completion, and when the opening exercises are finally held, on May 18, not only will the weather be then, in all probability, be settled, but the plant will be finished and occupied, all the laboratories will be fully equipped and the grounds, the exterior and, in fact, the whole institution, will present a far more favorable impression.

Many friends of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital sent great baskets of roses and other fresh-cut flowers, which brightened the interior and permeated the long corridors with their fragrance.

Guests at Dinner
 At 7 o'clock last night the delegation of visiting churchmen, workers and friends from the various conferences in the Pacific Union territory were guests of the sanitarium management at a dinner served in the dining hall of the new institution, with Elder J. L. McElhany, president of the Pacific Union conference, as master of ceremonies.

Elder A. G. Daniells of Washington, D. C., made an address wherein he spoke ringing words of praise for the great new plant and those who had made possible its realization, pointing out that it stood not only as a monument, but as an active Adventist instrument of service.

Following the brief dinner program, there was singing, which concluded the exercises.

BUILDING REPLETE WITH ALL MODERN EQUIPMENT

Tree Shaded, Flower Decked Surroundings Bring Atmosphere of Quiet Peace to Patients Seeking to Recuperate

Many expressions of pleasure and gratification were heard from visitors as they inspected the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital yesterday. They were happily surprised over what they saw, and congratulations were expressed toward the management for the big vision that was displayed in the making of the plans for this kind of an institution in Glendale.

Erected at a cost of more than

$1,000,000, the structure is replete with adequate facilities for the treatment of the sick, and also for the training of young men and women who have chosen the nurse's profession as a vocation. These young people now have better opportunities than ever before for the prosecution of their studies.

The new buildings, for there are actually three buildings in one, the sanitarium proper, the hydrotherapy and the medical sections, have a beautiful setting in an area of thirty acres, where two hundred splendid oak trees and many fruit trees of different varieties, besides floral life of numerous botanical species, will give the grounds an appearance of wonderful beauty. The location is a mile east of the present sanitarium, in the direction of Eagle Rock where, from the sun parlor on the roof of the new main administration building, one can command a fine view of the unsurpassed California scenery for many miles distant. On a clear day the Santa Barbara mountains, Catalina Island and the ocean are clearly visible. And perhaps more important than all, where a selection has been made for the location of a hospital, much painstaking thought has been given to the matter of quiet. No auto roads are in close proximity to the grounds nor do the rumble of street cars break in upon the rooms of the patients. In fact such particular care has been given to this feature of quiet that only passenger autos are allowed to approach the buildings from the front. Trucks and other vehicles must enter the grounds from the rear.

Abundant Facilities

The capacity of the new institution is 131 rooms, four of which can be used for ward rooms. Thirty-three rooms on the ground floor have been temporarily given for the use of sixty-six student nurses or until that time when a nurses' dormitory will be completed. Then the thirty-three rooms in use by the nurses will be given over to patients, thus making it possible for the institution to accommodate 200 sick.

The main building is of class A construction, of brick, steel and concrete and absolutely fireproof. It is of the Spanish type of architecture, with red tile roof. Every room is equipped with toilet and lavatory, telephone, Hartung Silent Call System and radio connection. Twenty-one of the 131 rooms have private baths. All the rooms are large and airy, having from two to four windows each. Laundry chutes are provided on each floor, also dumb waiters, and there are two passenger elevators. The large kitchen is one of the particularly attractive features, beautifully finished in glazed brick. It is furnished with every known essential culinary equipment. The fine large dining room has a seating capacity for 150 persons. The latest refrigerating system to be installed has a capacity of two tons of ice per day. A well equipped laundry under the direction of an experienced laundryman will take care of the institution's soiled linen, while the workmen employed in carpenter and repair shops which are immediately adjoining the laundry will be at call when their services are required.

Heating System

The heating of the institution is done through two 150 horsepower boilers of high pressure, which also supply the sterilizers on each floor of the hospital as well as the physicians' offices, in the medical building, a department of its own given over to the use of the doctors. Several offices in the medical building have been apportioned to the superintendent and assistant superintendent of nurses.

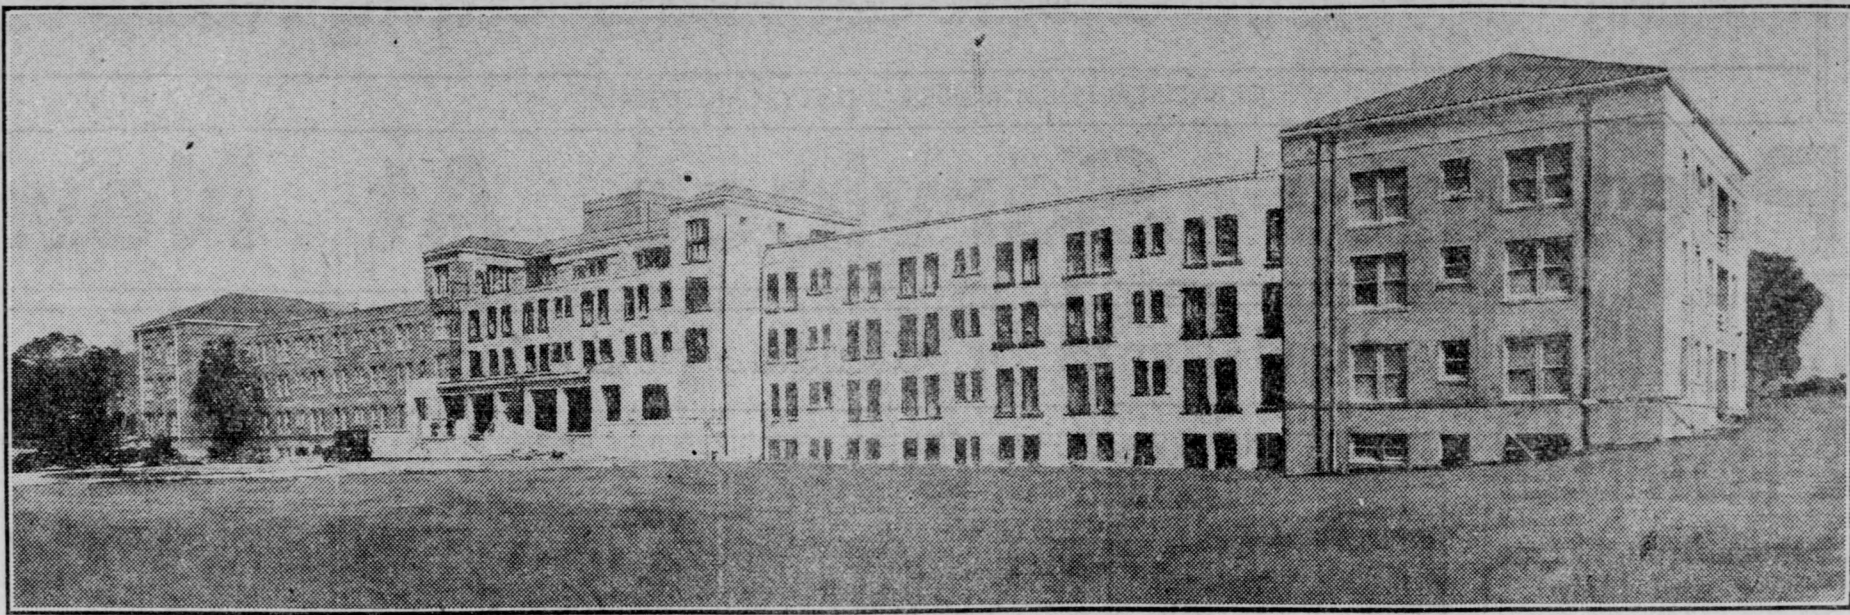

The hydro-therapy building immediately adjoining the medical building is a structure of two stories and basement, 46x152 feet. The first floor is used for the treatment of women exclusively, the second floor for men. In this building are also the department for hydro-therapy demonstration, and a large well equipped room for domestic science classes. In the basement of the hydro-therapy building are the nurses' dressing rooms and class rooms.

Underneath the main dining room and parlor are the cafeteria for the employees of the institution.

New Glendale Sanitarium And Hospital Building

Here is a picture of the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital building which was opened Sunday for public inspection. It is owned and operated by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination and will be the objective point of people from all parts of the world seeking health and happiness. The new institution represents an investment of considerably more than $1,000,000.

Board's Head

ELDER W. MILTON ADAMS of Eagle Rock, President of the Southern California conference and, as such, president of the board of directors of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Elder W. Milton Adams, president of the Southern California conference of Seventh-Day Adventists and automatically president of the board of directors of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, is a resident of Los Angeles, living on Casper avenue, Eagle Rock, almost at the doors of Glendale and close to the great institution he heads.

Elder Adams graduated from Union college, Lincoln, Neb., and as a young man was active in Canadian conferences, spending ten years in the Dominion. Later he preached from Adventist pulpits in Iowa and made his home at Nevada, that state, where still later he became president of the Iowa conference.

From 1912 to 1915 Elder Adams was president of the Utah conference. He then came to Los Angeles, where for several years he was pastor of the Carr Street Adventist church. In 1919 he became president of the Southern California conference, known as the largest local conference in the denomination, with thirty-six churches under its jurisdiction, thirteen of them in Los Angeles. For the past three years Elder Adams has resided in Eagle Rock.

PLANT EQUIPPED TO AID PATIENTS

Modern Appliances Used to Restore Sufferers to Normal Health

Electric Cabinet
The electric light cabinet is square in shape, and wide enough and high enough so that a patient can sit in it comfortably, and still have his head outside. The cabinet is made of steel, lined on its interior with mirrors, which serve as reflectors. There are thirty carbon lights inside, and after the patient has been placed in it, with his feet in hot water, his head and neck are wrapped in cold cloths, and, after an ice has been placed to his heart, the lights are then turned on. The light penetrates deep into the body, and soon every pore is open. The heat is dry and is used for eliminative purposes. It is used for colds, rheumatism, reducing treatments and other purposes.

In both the men's treatment rooms and the women's treatment rooms, there is a spacious waiting room, head nurse's office, a large closet and a compartment for wheeled chairs. The women also have a booth for giving head shampoos, and the men a section set aside as a barber shop.

For the convenience of the nurses, and to aid them in rendering prompt and efficient service to the patients, there is centrally located on each floor of the main building a large utility room which contains a fomentation tank and dryer, hot and cold sterile water tank, instrument sterilizer, utensil, bed pan sterilizer, cupboards for supplies and a work table made of terrazzo.

Another feature is the nurses' desk and cabinet, which are located near the center of the building on each floor, which contain the bedside records of the patients. On the wall immediately in front of the nurse's desk is the annunciator, which registers the calls from all the rooms on each floor.

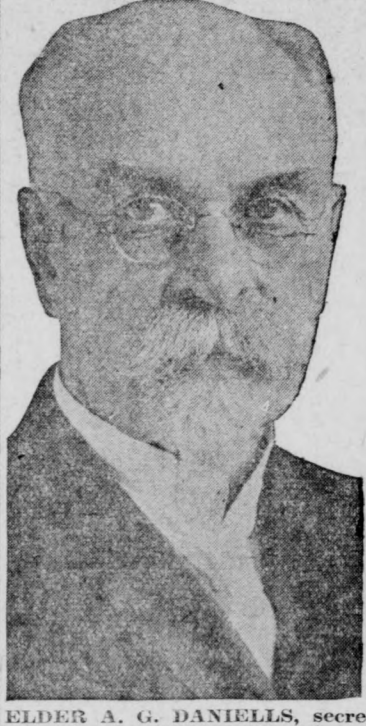

Fills Needed Gap

Another interesting department is the physiotherapy department, which, in simple language, gives electrical treatments. Its equipment, according to Dr. Ralph W. Maker, who is the Roentgenologist, consists of a multiplex sinusoidal outfit giving the various modalities of sinusoidal or wave current, also galvanic, and a Burdick deep therapy lamp, high frequency apparatus for giving the several modalities of high frequency current, and the Quartz light apparatus—the water cooled and the air cooled.

With this equipment it is designed to meet the ever-growing need of a form of treatment which fills the gap between surgery and medicine, thus being able to give that patient who does not come under either of these classes, the help needed.

The X-ray department has for its equipment the new "Snook" (Continued on page 8)

Aids Missions

ELDER A. G. DANIELS, secretary of the Foreign Mission board, and for twenty-one years president of the General Conference, an Adventist leader throughout the world, with headquarters in Washington D. C.

Elder A. G. Daniels is secretary of the Foreign Mission board of the Seventh-Day Adventist denomination, with headquarters in Washington D. C. This position he has held since May, 1922, being elected at the quadrennial session of the General conference held in San Francisco.

For twenty-one years previous to that time Elder Daniels was the president of the General conference, and as such was the administrative leader for the denomination throughout the world. Previous to that he was one of the pioneer missionaries to New Zealand and Australia, having remained in the South Seas fourteen years. He went to that section of the world from Iowa as a young man just entering the ministry.

World Wide Traveler

During the years in which he was president of the General conference, Elder Daniels was a world-wide traveler, visiting all parts of the world except South America, in the interests of his church. He advocated a strong foreign missionary program, with the result that many new countries, never before entered by representatives of his church, now have Adventist stations, and the work is advancing along very progressive lines.

Elder Daniels is still traveling on an extensive scale, and keeps constantly before his followers the growth of the denomination and the needs both in the way of new recruits and means. He has been in Glendale on numerous occasions, and his coming for the first opening of the new sanitarium is welcomed by all the members of the church here.

PROGRESS SHOWN IN CHURCH WORK

Present Building Taxed to Hold Congregation As Numbers Increase

Prominent in Glendale religious life is the Seventh-day Adventist church, organized on June 27, 1906, two years after the sanitarium was established here. The development of the little church kept measured step with that of the sanitarium and today when the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital stands out as one of the foremost health centers in the United States, the Glendale Adventist church is a strong unit in the Adventist denomination.

Elder G. W. Reaser, who is still a resident of Glendale and prominent in Adventist affairs, organized the church. The first meeting place was in the sanitarium building and Elder Charles F. Marvin, then chaplain of the sanitarium, was pastor.

Buy Church Building

Later in 1911 a church building was purchased from the Baptist church and moved to the northeast corner of the sanitarium grounds. But the congregation grew from year to year and in 1917 five lots were purchased a block north of the sanitarium at Isabel street and California avenue and the church building was moved to this site and its capacity doubled.

It was in 1907 that the church opened a school in a small building on the east side of Isabel street, opposite the sanitarium. When the church was moved to its present location, the school was moved, too. The school is now located on a fifteen-acre tract in Sycamore canyon.

The growth of the church has been most remarkable extending to Eagle Rock, where another church was organized last year.

Growing Membership

The Glendale church now has over 750 members, with a seating capacity in the church of only 700. In order to serve all members of the denomination a branch of the (Continued on page 7)

Dr. Newton G. Evans of Loma Linda, president of the College of Medical Evangelists, who came to Glendale for the public inspection Sunday of the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, is one of the most prominent members of the Adventist medical fraternity and enjoys a national reputation.

He is a graduate of Cornell Medical college and also attended for two years the American Medical Missionary college at Battle Creek, Mich. He held the chair of pathology there for a number of years and was also connected with the Battle Creek sanitarium.

Close Friends

It was while at Battle Creek that Dr. H. G. Westphal, medical superintendent of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, became a close friend of Dr. Newton G. Evans. In the years that have followed, this friendship has continued and the two doctors will (Continued on page 8)

ACADEMY OFFERS VARIED COURSE

Adventists Stress Need Education In Conduct Of Local School

Education is a vital interest of Glendale Seventh-day Adventists and out in Sycamore canyon, only two blocks from the new sanitarium building, is the Seventh-day Adventist academy with a student body of 400, of which 250 are in the grades and 150 in high school classes.

This school was formerly located on North Isabel street, but more room for expansion was needed and about the same time work was begun on the sanitarium building the old school building was moved to the canyon site and placed near a new and larger building.

Offering both grammar grade and high school courses the academy has splendid educational opportunities. Thirteen instructors compose the faculty, and several new teachers are to be secured to handle the additional work required by the steady increase in the enrollment.

Wonderful Location

Combining both the beautiful and practical the school plant occupies a wonderful location in the canyon. The main building is a product of California architecture, finished in brown stucco. There are eight large class rooms and a large auditorium with a seating capacity of over 250. In addition there are offices, rest rooms and lockers. The approximate cost of this building was $40,000.

The school campus includes sixteen acres, five of which are used solely for recreational purposes. Natural oak trees dot this acreage. A lawn has been put in with a complete automatic sprinkling system and with further landscape gardening the academy buildings and grounds will form a school site of which Glendale may well be proud.

Members of the faculty are D. A. Oels, principal; W. B. Dart, mathematics; Pauline Sturges, English; W. F. Vanatta, woodwork; Rika Hartog, music; P. A. Webber, Bible and history; Harold Mourer, science; Nellie Hankins, domestic science; Mrs. Lola Martin, eighth grade; Mabel De Groot, seventh grade; Louise Wiesenhuber, fifth and sixth grades; Frances Smith, third and fourth grades; Charlotte Jewell, first and second grades. No kindergarten has yet been incorporated into the curriculum but arrangements are now under way to establish such a department if there is a demand for it.

Student government was adopted by the academy and Robert Morton is president of the associated student body.

Bible Study Class
One requirement is that every student has a class in Bible study every day.

In June about twenty will graduate and a large majority of them are planning on attending the Adventist college in St. Helena. This college is known as the Pacific Union college.

Since the opening of the newer and larger academy in the canyon many gifts have been received. Dr. Henry R. Harrower, who had taken an active interest in the school, gave a large flag and flag pole, and an automatic electric clock and bell system was a gift from the student body.

HOSPITAL DRIVE BUILT BY FERRY

Local Contractor Lays Out Beautiful Approach To Sanitarium

The beautiful winding drive from East Wilson avenue to a grove of live oaks to the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital is the work of Peter L. Ferry, well known local road contractor. The 614 East Acacia avenue built a large proper street work in the canyon.

Up to this point the road is on the old road, but the new road was laid out within the city limits, according to Mr. Ferry, being over 2000 feet long and of a uniform width of fifty feet, the central twenty feet being paved with crushed rock and gravel.

The large organization maintained by Mr. Ferry makes it possible for him to handle private as well as public road work.

Efficiency experts have invaded the domestic sanctum of the American housewife with the result that the following table has been ordered as a good average: Time required to make single bed, 3 minutes; time required to make double bed, 5 minutes; time required to clean bedroom, 25 minutes; time required to clean dining room, 45 minutes; time required to mop kitchen floor, 12 minutes; time required to serve four-course meal, 90 minutes.

PROVE OF VERDANT OAK TREES ENHANCE SCENE

Structure Gleams Jewel-like in Setting of Radiant Beauty; Matchless Panorama of Southland Seen On All Four Sides

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

Rising in white beauty above a green glen of live oaks, sculptured, massive, perfect, the embodiment and consummation of a dream that has been shared by Seventh-Day Adventists all up and down the Pacific coast, the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital lifts grandly into the blue skyline of northeast Glendale, glistening in the Southern California sunshine like a great jewel placed in that magnificent natural setting as though by the hand of God.

Turning north on Wilson avenue, just east of Richland avenue, one swings past the broad gates of the institution and winds up a curving drive through a delightful grove of live oaks where all day long the cool shadows race and play, while a little fragrant breeze sings in the branches. By an easy grade, the drive swings up to the front entrance of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, ending in a broad semi-circle and a generous parking space, designed to accommodate scores of cars without crowding.

Entering the building, one is lifted in a silent elevator to the spacious sun-parlor atop the fourth floor, glassed in from the elements. For those who desire to sit in the breeze and glimpse the view unobstructed and perchance take a sun bath, doors to east and west open directly on the roof.

Visions of Beauty

And that view! To the north; the Verdugo hills, with Sycamore and Scholl canyons, and in the panorama, the Glendale academy (an Adventist school) framed in the center of the picture, Richland avenue and its long line of eucalyptus trees on the left, C. E. Kimlin's new home on the right, and many little bungalows peacefully dotting the foreground, green grass plots and shade trees mingling to form a sylvan retreat; to the south; the Griffith park hills in the distance, a foreground of thickly banked live oaks, the curving drive from Wilson avenue like a ribbon, and in between all of South Glendale, the picture dominated by the new Glendale Union and Broadway high school plant, with Broadway and Colorado street bounding it, joining a few blocks east and continuing on to Pasadena; to the east; the green Occidental college knolls on the left, sheltering the many buildings of that great institution, picturesque Hill drive on the right, with its beautiful homes, with Colorado boulevard running down the center of the picture, a swarm with cars, and dotting the foreground; and to the west; the business heart of Glendale, tall buildings seen clustered near the intersection of Brand boulevard and Broadway, and the great northwest section spreading beyond to Burbank and the San Fernando valley.

A majestic, inspiring view. One might sit there by the hour and gaze out over the beautiful Southern California landscape to north, south, east and west, a never-tiring panorama—far should the view in any one direction fall, one has but to turn and look in another. Surely an ideal location for those who seek to regain their health.

"Thirty Ideal Acres"
"Thirty of the most ideal acres in the Southwest," a visitor was heard to remark. The expression might well become the slogan of the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. There is nothing finer in Glendale, and that there is nothing finer than Glendale in the Southwest has long been admitted.

At the axis of a circle whose radii of only a few miles reach to Hollywood, via Los Feliz road, Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue; to Pasadena, via Wilson avenue and Colorado boulevard; to Los Angeles, via Wilson avenue, Glendale avenue and the San Fernando road; and to all the upper valley points such as Montrose and La Crescenta, via Wilson avenue and the Verdugo road—the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital is seen to be located within convenient reach of the entire Southwest.

A distinctive feature in connection with the construction of the new sanitarium has been the large number of members of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination in its employ. Members of the faith have come from different sections of the country to work on it. Some who come merely as transients have found the climatic conditions so ideal, and living conditions so attractive that they have brought the members of their families also here, and are now established as permanent residents.

These men have taken more than an ordinary interest in the erection of the buildings. They feel that the sanitarium will not only advertise the community throughout the United States, but that the high ideals in back of the erection of this institution will also spread out over a wide area.

Women Have Helped
It has been quite evident all along that these men and women have more than an ordinary course of civic pride running through their veins. The women have worked long and arduously to lend their feminine idealism to the attractiveness of the interior, and are as much interested in the success of the undertaking as the managers themselves, taking the position that since the sanitarium is being conducted as a part of the world-wide medical program which the denomination is endeavoring to carry forward, they, too, want to see it fulfill its mission to suffering humanity in a way that will accomplish the most permanent results.

It is not generally known, yet the fact remains, that there are a large number of men and women either now working on the institution or have been in the recent past, who have made their living in a more professional manner in times past. There are men who are now wearing coveralls who also can still stand before audiences with white collars neatly pressed trousers, and highly polished shoes, and interest audiences with their oratorical flow of language.

Some of these men have been missionaries to foreign lands. They have gone into the darkest corners of the earth to teach the gospel to natives who knew little or nothing about God. They are in this section of the world resting from their arduous duties, and toward making this institution the finest of its kind in all California. Some of these men no doubt will some day return to their mission stations, taking with them pleasant memories of the days they spent in Glendale helping to complete the sanitarium in its construction work.

Home Missionaries

There are others who have done gospel work in different sections of the United States, and are planning to return to this kind of endeavor as soon as the work ceases here. Most of those who try to the south; the Griffith park hills in the distance, a foreground of thickly banked live oaks, the curving drive from Wilson avenue like a ribbon, and in between all of South Glendale, the picture dominated by the new Glendale Union and Broadway high school plant, with Broadway and Colorado street bounding it, joining a few blocks east and continuing on to Pasadena; to the east; the green Occidental college knolls on the left, sheltering the many buildings of that great institution, picturesque Hill drive on the right, with its beautiful homes, with Colorado boulevard running down the center of the picture, a swarm with cars, and dotting the foreground; and to the west; the business heart of Glendale, tall buildings seen clustered near the intersection of Brand boulevard and Broadway, and the great northwest section spreading beyond to Burbank and the San Fernando valley.

Quite a number of women have been giving faithful service in the making of draperies, and the cleaning of the rooms as the carpet layers have finished their work. They have scrubbed the walls, the base boards and the floors and have engaged in these duties cheerfully with the thought in mind that there is a strong possibility of patients who enter this institution not only becoming thoroughly acquainted with the gospel of health but also with the gospel of salvation.

The Seventh-day Adventists have established four other sanitariums, and a medical college in the state of California in addition to the Glendale institution. All of these other institutions are on a paying basis, and they, too, are doing their share toward advancing this great state as one vast health resort.

Other Institutions

The institution farthest north is that at St. Helena, about 68 miles from San Francisco. The one farthest south is at National City, a suburb of San Diego. The one north is known as the St. Helena Sanitarium, while the one at San Diego is known as the Paradise Valley Sanitarium. The one in the White Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles, the Loma Linda Sanitarium at Loma Linda, which is about seven miles from San Bernardino, and the College of Medical Evangelists on the same ground with the Loma Linda institution.

There is some talk of purchasing an institution in the southern section of the state that can easily be converted into a sanitarium, which if purchased would be the first institution of this kind ever conducted by the denomination. In this latest institution, the plan would be to take care of tubercular patients. Men and women are now looking into the details of such a proposition; in fact, the campaign has already been started for the raising of funds with which to add this institution to those already under the control of the denomination.

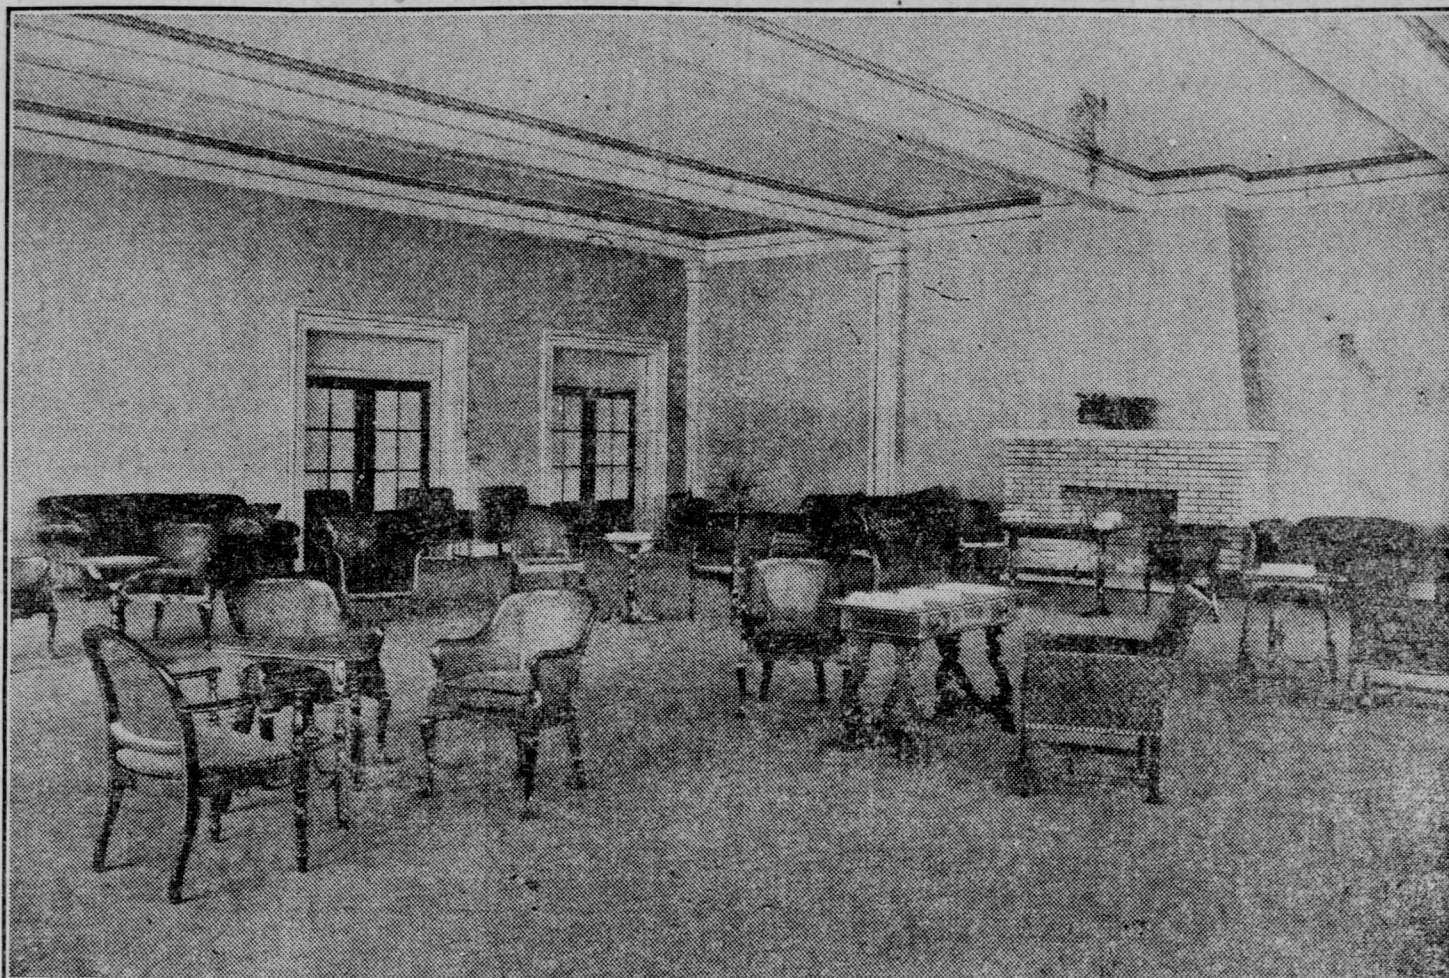

Glendale Sanitarium patients in these sister institutions have come from various parts of the world, and they are doing their share toward advertising California. All of the other institutions have an excellent patronage. There is a big dispensary connected in connection with the White Memorial Hospital, and more than 70,000 patients were treated in this dispensary during 1923. Surgical work is also a big asset in this institution.

In connection with the College of Medical Evangelists, young men and women are not only trained to be physicians, but the evangelistic side of life is also inculcated into them. They are encouraged to plan their life work with the view of going into foreign lands as missionaries. Quite a number of the graduates of this institution, which has a Class A rating in the medical profession, have gone into the densely populated sections of foreign lands and found most fruitful fields for the practice of medicine as well as surgery. There are men and women graduates of this institution who are out in the remote spots of earth, as far as civilization is concerned, and who are doing a most noble work for the alleviation of physical suffering.

Pioneers of Church

In many instances the medical-missionary graduates from this school are now pioneering the way for other kinds of gospel workers. They are running into sections where one physician may be found for a quarter of a million people, and are doing a noble work. Some of them have been feared by the natives because of their ignorance of the good a physician can do for them, and delay.

Parlor In New Sanitarium And Hospital

Here's a view of the parlor at the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. It is fitted for comfort and will prove a popular gathering place for those at the big institution.

manager, assistant manager, and cashier are directly off the main entrance to the administration building, where public telephone booths have been installed. Immediately next to the main office is a large reception room.

Every comfort is given the patients in their beds, the most modern having been placed in every room. There are two kinds of furniture in the bed rooms. In those rooms, where private baths adjoin, the furniture is mahogany, while in the others, walnut prevails. Everything is new, bed, springs, mattresses, linens, and spreads, and the very appearance of the bed rooms is an invitation in itself to come in and rest awhile.

Think of the rooms being equipped with telephones whose bells ring only as a very faint noise that will hardly arouse the nerves of a patient! The bell part of the telephone has been placed in the clothes closet, and with the door closed the patient just barely hears it ring. Then, too, there is a radio receiving set in each room, and the management has provided a large receiving station on the roof of the main building that will be open throughout the day and until a reasonable hour at night, and the patients will have the privilege of listening direct from their rooms.

The lighting fixtures have also been installed with the thought in mind of making no discomforts whatever on the eyes of the patients. The fixtures in the main lobby are of bronze color, and bronze frosted lights to match. The carpets are of rich rose taupe, and there are no decorated papers on the walls to give the patients any undue reason for stirring up their minds to unnecessary activity.

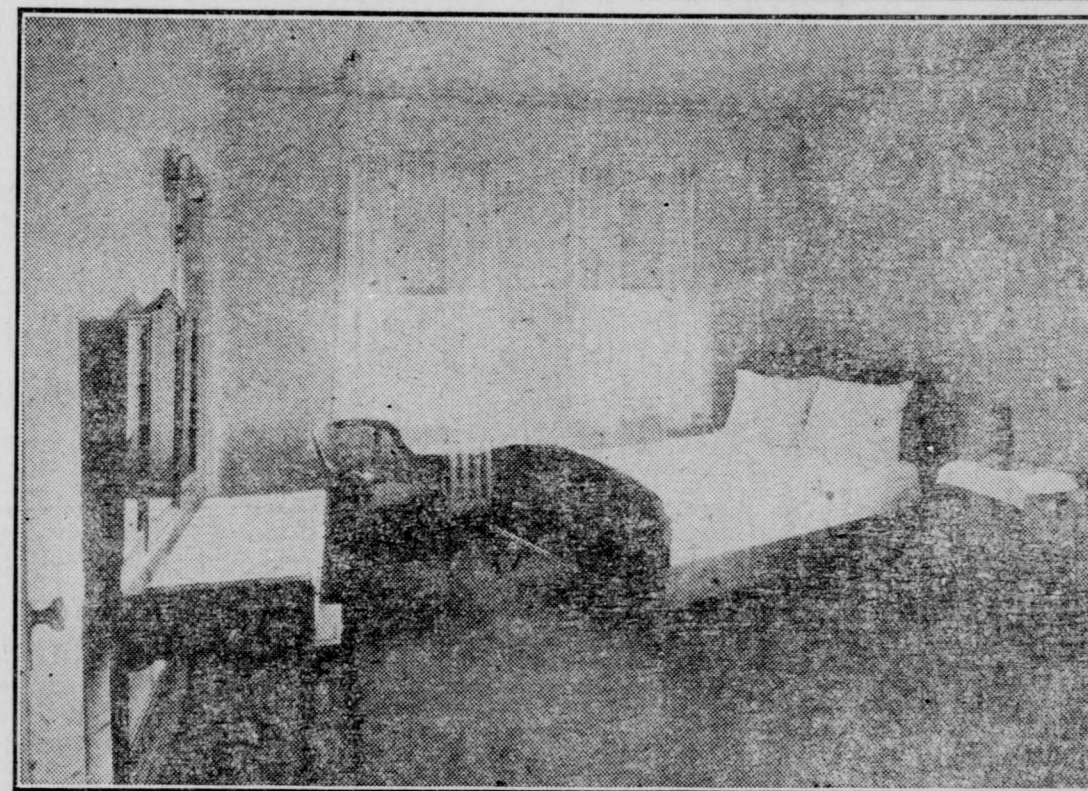

Beautifully figured carpets have been laid in the long corridors, which stretch for a length of more than 400 feet, and standing out in the corridors are the drinking fountains. A visit to the parlor on the first floor indicates that much wisdom has been shown in the arrangement of the furniture. Soft, easy chairs have been provided together with settees that accommodate two and three persons, and also davenport. The appearance of home-likeness is quite evident.

They have had to win their confidence through a slow and painful process as far as the relieving of their sufferings was concerned. In other words people have suffered intense agony for long stretches before they would finally allow the medical missionary to give them relief. But when this relief came, the whole attitude of the sick and their families changed, and they became walking advertisements for the medical man or woman in such sections.

Letters have come from these young men and women, who are devoting their lives to their fellow men, stating that there is a sad need for medical assistance in these parts of the world, and the College of Medical Evangelists is established for the purpose of training young men to do this work as well as practice in the more enlightened countries. Dr. Newton G. Evans, is the president of this college.

Word has just been received from Dr. Evans that "recognition has been granted to the college by the New York Board of Regents as well as the Conjoint Board of England." Recognition by these two boards, continued Dr. Evans, places their graduates on the accredited list in this country and admits them to examination in England without any unnecessary delay.

MANAGEMENT IN KIMLIN'S HANDS

Business Executive Has Very Prominent Part in Institution's Growth

In June of 1913. Eight years later, in June of 1921, he was elected to the City Council and is still serving as a member of that body. He is also a member of the Exchange club, a director of the Glendale State bank and in other ways prominent in the life of the city. He lives with his family at 206 Ballejo street, near the sanitarium.

Mr. Kimlin comes from Battle Creek, Mich., and from 1904 to 1912 was connected with the business management of the great sanitarium of that city. He attended the Battle Creek college and later the Cornell Business college of Battle Creek, fitting himself for the executive positions he has since held.

Seek Hospital Site
It was Mr. Kimlin who urged Dr. H. G. Westphal to affiliate himself with the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, when in 1918 he visited Glendale with Mrs. Westphal on a vacation. The association has proved an advantageous one for the institution. Mr. Kimlin feels, great strides having been made in the past five years.

In the spring of 1919 Mr. Kimlin and Dr. Westphal, together with others of the Adventist denomination who realized the time had come for the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital to expand, began looking around for a new location. In order to raise funds, they offered the city of Glendale the entire property on East Broadway for $55,000. The city rejected the offer. Today the property is valued at $500,000.

In March of 1921 the present location near Sycamore canyon was selected. Later more territory was added. Mr. Kimlin states, until today thirty acres are contained in the beautiful grounds of the institution, which with the modern and complete four story building comprises a $1,000,000 investment, one which the officers and directors of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital feel will greatly increase in value in the next few years, as the adjacent territory builds up.

"We feel extremely optimistic," church has been formed in Sycamore canyon and 150 persons now worship at the academy. Under the leadership of the present pastor, Elder R. W. Parmelee many plans are under way for greater development of the church organization.

Elder Parmelee is a man beloved by members of his congregation and held in high esteem by his fellow ministers and other Glendaleans and under his direction the Adventist church is an inspiring part of the denominational organization in Glendale.

of this great institution for the alleviation of human ills," says Mr. Kimlin. "Already the indications are that the volume of our business is going to be more than we can handle. We now have more than enough applications to fill our 150 rooms and are scarcely started. In a few months we will undoubtedly be turning patients away. It is just another indication of the growth and popularity of Glendale. People come here from far and wide."

Wonderful Location
"When I stand on the sunny balcony of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, four stories above the street level, and gaze out over the beautiful landscape, I realize more and more that our choice of a location was ideal. To the south the new Glendale Union High school spreads in inspiring panorama, yet not near enough to bring its noises to the patients' ears. To the north one sees the Glendale academy, an Adventist school, half hidden in live oaks and sycamores. To the west lies the business district of Glendale, only a few blocks away but far enough to silence its many sounds while yet near enough for convenience. And to the east lies Eagle Rock, picturesque suburb of Los Angeles."

"On all sides of us the most intense development is under way but our thirty-acre grounds will forever protect us from encroachment. In years to come, the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital will be in the very middle of a great residential section as populous as all of Glendale today—and yet it will be forever upon a hill, peaceful, serene, an institution."

EXPERT PUBLICITY MAN IS BROUGHT FROM EAST

W. L. Burgan of Washington, D. C., Comes Here to Superintend Advertising Campaign To Present Institution to the Public

W. L. Burgan is the publicity director for the Seventh Day Adventist denomination, and he came to Glendale about five weeks ago for work in connection with the opening of the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. He was interviewed by The Glendale Evening News and gave his impressions regarding the local institution. He said:

"As publicity director of the Seventh-Day Adventist denomination, it is my duty to travel extensively in the interest of this feature of the church work, and when the proper time arrived for an intensive advertising campaign to be conducted for the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, the managers of this institution invited me to direct it."

"I came to your beautiful city for the first time five weeks ago, and during that time have had many pleasant experiences in writing about this wonderful institution, getting acquainted with the men and women connected with it, and also making the acquaintance of the newspaper men."

"Although I have visited a number of the Seventh-Day Adventist sanitariums in the United States, this new one in Glendale makes the deepest impression on me of all. When the request came across the continent to our world headquarters in Washington, D. C. to come and give some assistance in letting the good people of California know something about this sanitarium I could not quite understand why I should make such a long journey when others seemed qualified to do the same kind of work."

Visits Sanitarium
"Shortly after arriving here, Elder J. L. McElhany, president of the Pacific Union Conference, who is the leader of the church work on the Pacific coast, took me to the new sanitarium, and as we were riding toward it in one of the institution's automobiles, I felt a bit stunned as I viewed that magnificent structure. There it stood on a hill overlooking a canyon, as it were, that was well dotted with beautiful oak trees. As we wound around the nicely built road, and came to the front entrance of the main building, the thought was deeply impressed on my mind that the Adventists of California certainly have erected a memorial to the cause of God that would rightly represent the great medical work in which they as a denomination were engaged."

"Although I had seen copies of The Glendale Evening News with photographs of the buildings in the course of construction, and had read the skillfully written articles by your local reporters, yet I never dreamed of the extent of the structures. "Going into the lobby, Elder McElhany soon led me into the office of C. E. Kimlin, the business manager, with whom I soon got acquainted. But, as we made our way toward Mr. Kimlin's office, I peered down that long corridor in either direction, and I said to myself 'this is some whale of a building.'"

Meets C. E. Kimlin
"As far as I can remember this was the first time that I had ever met Mr. Kimlin, although I have been to California on other occasions, and he has been in our General Conference office in Washington D. C. It took but an instant for me to see that he was the master of the situation. Off in an adjoining room were a number of detail men busily engaged in keeping books, paying checks, sending out orders for materials, and off in another part of the room were business men waiting to see the man upon whose shoulders the heaviest responsibility of bringing the construction of this institution to its completion had rested."

"Why had I been given the right of way to his office when others had been waiting a long time to see to him? I was ushered in without any delay whatever, and after introductions had ended, Mr. Kimlin immediately started in to tell me about the virtues of the institution, and his anxiety to let the world at large know what he and his co-managers had planned for their physical benefit. I sized up the situation immediately, and being a trained newspaper man, began to ask questions, my idea being to become thoroughly acquainted with all the details, and the physical layout of the buildings, so that I could write intelligently about them. It took but an instant to comprehend the pleasing thought that Mr. Kimlin not only understood the management of that mammoth undertaking, but also realized what a newspaper reporter wanted in order to give his readers intelligent information."

"I was glad that my brethren in the church work had paid me the compliment of inviting me to give them assistance in the newspaper publicity campaign, and entered heartily upon the work. In company with Adolph T. Hopmann, the purchasing agent of the institution, I made a round of the new buildings. The first thing I noticed in the corridor on the main floor was what afterwards was explained as the nurses' desk for records that will be kept of patients' physical condition. Then he led me into a utility room where the highly polished tanks for the giving of fomentations had already been installed. The heavily built-in table of terrazzo, which will be used for the spreading and folding of the fomentations in preparation for treatments of patients in their beds deeply impressed me. I could see the wisdom of this idea. There is no possibility of this table wearing out, such as would be the case if it had been made of wood. With his feet, Mr. Hopmann worked the mechanism of the different tanks and sterilizers, and explained that the nurses can have their arms and hands free so that they can handle the fomentations and other necessary appliances without any difficulty."

"It must be remembered that in order for a patient to get the best results from such treatments, these fomentations, which are woolen cloths, must be as hot as a patient can stand. One cloth is soaked in boiling water, and then (Continued on page 9)

Special, intended not only for treatment work, but also radiographic, and the unit is designed to meet the requirement of all voltages up to 200,000. High voltage is necessary to reach deep-seated afflictions, such as new growths, cancers, etc. The treatment of these conditions by X-ray has proven to be of great value, aiding the surgeon in his work. Another feature of the equipment is the combination fluoroscopic and radiographic table. The patient can be viewed either in the horizontal or in the vertical position without effort on his part. This is a great advantage when dealing with the very sick. In addition, the department also has a Potter-Buchy diaphragm, which is used to delineate bony structure more clearly than through thick overlying soft tissue. It is especially useful in making radiograms of the hip joint, spinal vertebrae, etc.

Study Proper Diet
In connection with the department on dietetics, much study is given to the question of proper diet. A dietitian has charge of all patients whom the physicians place on a special diet, and assigns the foods such patients are to eat. Menus are marked for each meal, and the foods are weighed, so that the patients will have the proper amount, even to the difference of a gram. With patients who are afflicted with diabetes, it is necessary for the dietitian to apportion a certain number of grams and calories to see that the foods are properly balanced. Laboratory tests

Jointly rejoice over the completion of the great new Adventist institution in Glendale.
Dr. Evans was connected with the medical department of the University of Kentucky for some time and later held the chair of pathology at the University of Tennessee. He came to the College of Medical Evangelists nearly ten years ago, since when he has devoted himself untiringly to training the type of men and women turned out by this unique institution, said to be the only one of its kind in the United States and from which have gone missionaries to the ends of the earth, trained in medicine as well as religion.

GOLD MINING PROMISING

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—Mining in the Mother Lode district is in promising condition for the present season, according to a report just filed by C. A. Logan, district mining engineer of the state mining bureau. The gold production of the district for 1923 is placed at $13,250,000. It is set forth that increasing depth of operations does not indicate any exhaustion of gold quartz.

Helium can be liquified by cold, and stored.

are given daily, in order to find out what kind of foods and the quantity the patients can handle. Insulin is also given in connection with the diet of diabetics. And when the proper foods and proportions are discovered through this scientific process, the patients soon recover. The patients who are suffering with diabetes, however, are not left to care for themselves in an unscientific manner after they are pronounced cured and discharged from the sanitarium, for the dietitian gives instruction to members of the family in order that proper combinations and quantity may be given the patients upon arriving at their homes.

Give Varied Tests
In the laboratory work in connection with such cases, it is necessary to give stomach tests, urine tests, or blood tests in order to discover just what kind of foods and how much should be given to bring about proper results. In serving foods in the dining room to patients who are able to be about, the same scientific arrangement is followed. Each day, the chef and dietitian arrange the menu cards so that they will be properly balanced with foods containing carbohydrates, proteins and fats.

Proper nutrition is one of the essentials in the treatment of the sick in the sanitarium, and no flesh foods are placed on the dining room tables. A visit to the culinary department will find an abundance of luscious fruits, appetizing grains and nuts, and vegetables that are cooked in a most tempting manner. Dr. B. E. Grant is the diabetic specialist, and Mrs. D. E. Stewart the dietitian.

Clinical Laboratory
A well-equipped clinical laboratory is also conducted. In blood chemistry, the following tests are made: Blood urea, blood sugar, blood creatinine, blood uric acid, and blood non-protein nitrogen, as well as other tests which have diagnostic value in nephritis, diabetes, pregnancy, etc. Pathological tissue technique and diagnosis is made in connection with inflammations, infections, malignant and benign tumors; also cancers and sarcomas.

The laboratory also sections surgical specimens, and microscopic diagnosis is also made of same. In the bacteriological department, blood cultures are made in cases of ulcerative heart disease, meningitis, typhoid fever and other infections. Spinal fluid cultures are made in cases of meningitis to detect any microorganisms, such as appear in pneumonia, influenza, etc. Other bacteriological work includes smears, and special stains and pus, and sputum, stool specimens and blood. Examination of spinal fluid is also made, and another feature is that of gastric analysis, when patients are tested for symptoms of stomach disease, and other digestive disorders. Dr. Olive Pippy is the pathologist.

The training school for nurses is also a valuable asset to the institution. Since its establishment in 1902, the school has graduated 200 nurses who have gone out into different parts of the world to practice the healing art.

These graduates have organized an alumni association which is very active. A letter is sent to each member quarterly, and are most interesting, as they contain reports from members in South America, China, France, Scotland, Australia, Porto Rico, Hawaiian Islands, Mexico, and other distant lands, as well as from many parts of the United States and Canada.

The training school is accredited by the California State Board of Health, and that the training given here is in no way inferior is proven by the fact that the graduates have no difficulty in passing the state board examination. In at least one instance a graduate of this board held the highest grade of any in the state. At the present time, the training school, which has an enrollment of seventy-five, is under the superintendency of Mrs. Daisy D. Harris, R. N., who is assisted by a corps of supervising nurses and instructors, all of whom are registered nurses. The training course covers a period of three years, and includes both practical and theoretical nursing, care of sick children, diet kitchen, operating room, hydrotherapy and massage, clinical laboratory, physicians' offices, electrotherapy, accidents and emergencies.

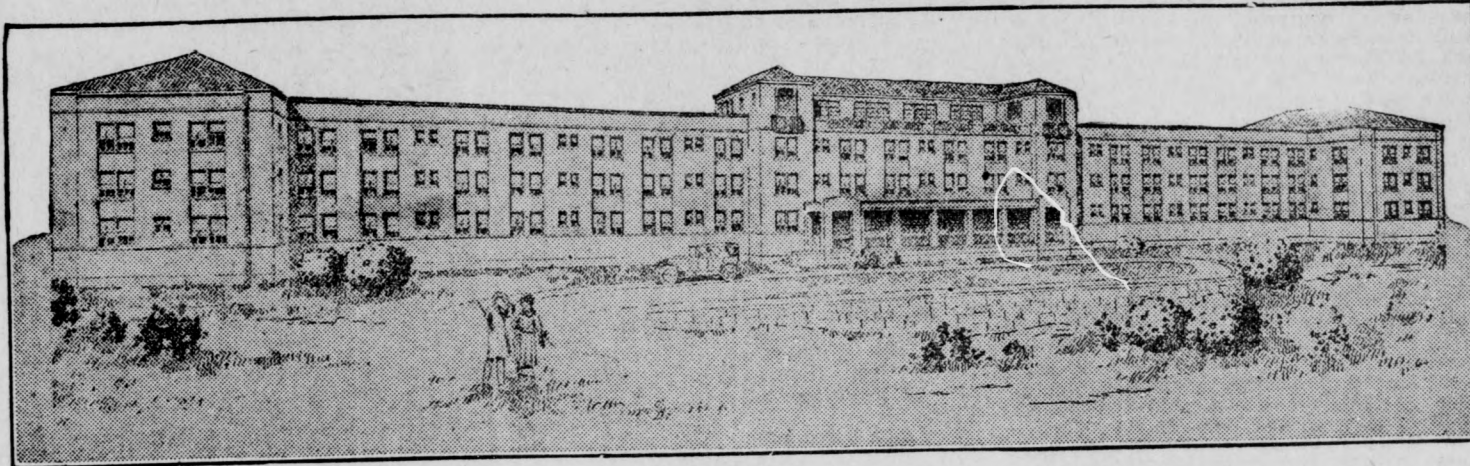

With the completion of the new institution, which provides for rooms and full equipment, every advantage is offered for the training of the nurses.

On account of the inclemency of the weather Sunday, the official Opening Exercises of the Glendale Sanitarium have been postponed to

Sunday, May 18th

We sincerely thank the many people who responded to our invitation yesterday, and also express our appreciation for the many flowers sent to us.

After An Expenditure of $1,250,000

The Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital

Just North of East Wilson, East of Verdugo Road

Is now ready to accommodate people from all parts of the country seeking health in our new location, which offers extreme quiet and restfulness, a wonderful panoramic view of mountain, valley and city—and yet is but a very few minutes from the heart of Glendale. A veritable haven for those seeking health under the most ideal conditions.

The new, fireproof building offers patients every convenience and facility for treating the ill that can be found in any sanitarium or hospital in the United States. This with quiet restfulness, conscientious care of trained attendants and the services of specialists offer an ideal opportunity for restored health.

People of Los Angeles, Hollywood, Eagle Rock and other cities have every advantage of this close at hand institution—dining room, treatment rooms, baths and hospital are at their disposal when occasion demands.

We Extend to All a Cordial Invitation to visit this new, modern Sanitarium and Hospital, where there are well-trained, conscientious attendants, and the most recent discoveries and developments in the medical and surgical world are to be found.

Curative methods are employed according to the latest principles of Physiological Therapeutics.

The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparation and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, give the patient a well balanced course of treatment. The purpose of this work is to help nature restore health and put one in possession of knowledge that will help him know how to live in order to retain health, for it is easier to lose than to regain.

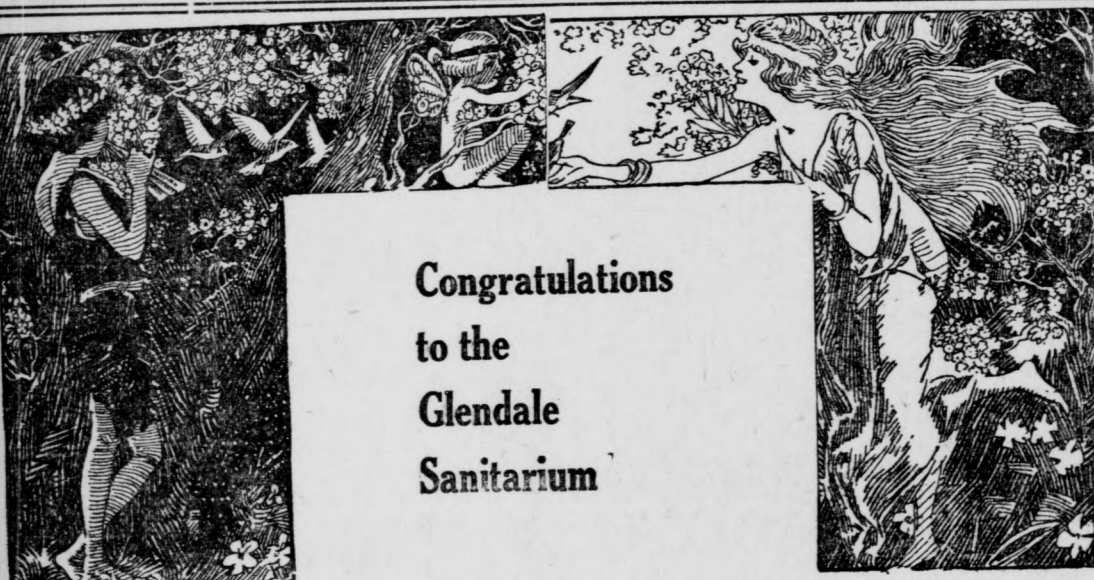

This system of treatments consists of diet, exercise and massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications and packs, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity.

The X-ray department has for its equipment the new "Snook Special," intended not only for treatment work, but also radiographic, and the unit is designed to meet the requirement of all voltages up to 200,000. High voltage is necessary to reach deep-seated afflictions, such as new growths, cancers, etc. The treatment of these conditions by X-ray has proven to be of great value, aiding the surgeon in his work.

Another feature of the equipment is the combination fluoroscopic and radiographic table. The patient can be viewed either in the horizontal or in the vertical position without effort on his part. This is a great advantage when dealing with the very sick. In addition the department also has a Potter-Buchy diaphragm, which is used to delineate bony structure more clearly than through thick, overlying, soft tissue. It is especially useful in making radiograms of the hip joint, spinal vertebrae, etc.

wrapped in a dry cloth, and the nurse through her skill arranges it so that the heat does not escape. It has wonderful virtue in relieving congestion, and making circulation normal. This utility room will be perhaps the most frequented by the nurses in that section of the building, and no doubt many a patient as he looks back on his experience in this excellently equipped institution will have pleasant memories of the faithfulness of his nurse in giving these treatments to the spine and chest, and relief coming to his pain-racked body.

Comfortable Bed Rooms

"Then I looked into the bed rooms, and could see that they would be comfortable. Since then the beds have been set up, and the dressers and writing desks and chairs put in, and they have every appearance of cheerfulness. With rose taupe velvet carpets on each floor, a telephone, and radio receiving set in each room, and a wash-room adjoining, nicely arranged lighting fixtures, and a push-button at the head of his bed whereby he can summon a nurse without any difficulty, the patient's comfort has been the first thought in the making of plans in this institution.

"In the rooms that have private baths attached, the furniture is mahogany while in the other rooms you find walnut furnishings. Every piece of furniture is new, every floor carpet new, every thing else in the rooms is new—the shades, the mattresses, the linens on the beds, and those on the dressers, and the fixtures in the wash rooms, and on the walls. The walls are neatly painted, the base boards finished in a rich stain, and ideals of home life are coupled with the thought that it is a place where the sick are to come and have every attention that human beings can devise in their efforts to assist nature in the restoration of health.

"After getting a mental picture of the bed rooms, we went into the spacious parlor which has since had its carpet laid, and the furniture placed. When the doors are opened for inspection on Sunday, visitors will see that great thought has been given to the selection of the furnishings. They will see rich-looking mahogany, walnut, cane and reed furniture. It will be arranged so that those of refined tastes can fully appreciate the painstaking care that has been given to the selection. They will find chairs with cushion seats in them which when sat upon give rest and comfort. They will find two-seated settees, three-seated settees, and davenports, these larger pieces of furniture having fancy pillows and cushions. They will find center tables, where patients can do their letter-writing, they will look up and see chandeliers that are in keeping with the other things in the parlor.

Room for 150 Persons

"In the adjoining room, they will see the dining room, with the floor scraped, and accommodations for 150 persons. Off from the dining room is the kitchen. Men have been working here for weeks fixing the stoves in place, building serving tables, and steam tables, arranging for the dishwashing machine that will be run by electricity, and building the chests where the milk and other supplies are to be kept. You will also see a series of shelves on which dishes and cooking utensils will be kept. The walls are of glazed brick, the floor is cement, and the very appearance of neatness, cleanliness, and other attributes that go to make a kitchen inviting are evident as soon as one walks into that spacious room. The utensils are new, the tables are spotless, and the management says the food that is to be cooked there will be the best that can be bought.

"Going down into the basement, we explored some more, and found among other places a room for culinary supplies, then we went into another larger room that has since been equipped with an ice plant. Here ice is to be made for the institution. The plant will have a capacity of two tons a day, and will obviate the possibility of the institution ever being without this essential in the treatment of its patients.

"You will also find the heating plant in the basement while the basement of the hydrotherapy building will be arranged for classes in connection with the nurses' training school. In one section of this basement the laundry has been established, so that soiled linens can be washed right there, and the laundry of the patients can also be taken care of.

Sun Parlor on Roof

"Leaving the basement, we ascended the stairs until we reached the roof. Here a solarium or sun parlor has been erected. It also is what might be termed an observation spot, for one can look out over the valley and across to the mountains and get a view in all directions that is exceedingly enjoyable. On a clear day you can see the ocean, you can see great stretches of the sun's rays, and the sight is indeed inspiring.

"While no definite arrangements have yet been made, it is understood that the management is thinking seriously of establishing a heliotherapy department on the roof for the treatment of the skin by aid of the sun's rays. Specialists in this line of work have come from Los Angeles, and declared that the institution has the best roof of any building in this section of the state for such treatments. Negotiations are now being conducted for the hiring of a specialist to take charge of this kind of a department.

"In connection with the building and completion of this institution there is one thing that has stood out above all others in the conduct of the men in charge, and also in the conduct of all other helpers, and that is the spirit that has been evident in every action and every word. Patience, kindness, cheerfulness, politeness, in fact, every attribute that characterizes the life of a man or woman that is possessed with virtues that are not supplied by their natural selves is quite evident. Though most of the men and women connected with the institution when I arrived were total strangers to me, it took but a very short time to realize that I was amongst friends. They are the same every day. Their whole lives are governed by the supreme thought of doing good unto others. It is evident that they have been inculcated with a spirit that reflects character, that makes others see virtues in them that are worth while, and it is easy to say that their going into this marvelous new building will not in any way change their ideals.

"They will still realize that their purpose in life is to do what they can to bring happiness, peace, joy and contentment in the lives of those who are now suffering intense agony, discouragement and despair. It is not because of any mercenary reason that the employees of the sanitarium do these things, for if the truth must be told, not one of them is being overpaid. Their wages are a secondary consideration. Many of them have been trained, and well trained, too, to go into other walks of life and make a much more lucrative wage, but they are looking into the future. There are men connected with the institution who have given up positions in the commercial world, because of their convictions that they should engage in endeavors that will bring physical benefits to their fellows. There are young women in the nurses' training class, others serving as waitresses in the dining room, and still others doing stenographic and clerical work who are in these positions by choice. They believe that they should do something to help some one else. They have accepted the gospel of salvation as a rule for their own lives, and are endeavoring to live it in the face of others. They feel that some will be convinced of a better life, and will accept the gospel of Christ as the only panacea for the ills in the world today. And these folks have some good results from their daily living.

Adventists' Beliefs

"I am a member of the Adventist denomination, and it was the teachings and the living of men and women in the church that led him to accept the gospel, and join with the others in its spread. The views of the Adventists are delightfully fascinating. First of all they point to Jesus Christ, as the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world. The Adventists believe, however, that there is more to the gospel than just merely saying 'I believe in the Lord Jesus Christ as my personal Saviour.' They believe that His life must be emulated in every respect, that it is necessary to grow in grace and the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, and, in order to develop this growth, one must advance daily as a child advances daily in his school studies.

"A man or a woman must shun sin, and every appearance of evil as he would escape from a venomous reptile, and must communicate with the God of heaven through prayer in order to develop. Hence, the employees of this institution are all members of the church, and the high ideals for which the institution stands are constantly held up to them. These people believe that there is an eternal reward awaiting them, if they live acceptable lives here, and they are reaching out after that reward. They believe that the second coming of Christ is near at hand, and want to do their part faithfully in giving to every nation, kindred, tongue and people the story of salvation, for they believe that when 'this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world, for a witness unto all nations, then shall the end come.' They believe that in the establishment of this medical institution they are fulfilling one of the purposes of God toward reaching fallen humanity with the story of the Cross, and its power to save from sin and sin's consequences. There is no personal financial gain for anyone connected with the institution, outside of his livelihood, and should there be any surplus funds they will be used for improvements and for assisting in the establishment of sanitariums in other parts of the world.

"They believe that at the coming of Christ, the rewards to all who have lived faithfully in this life will be given, and such rewards will be the gift of eternal life, and, after the whole plan of salvation has been worked out, this earth, in its purified state, will be the home of the redeemed. They believe that sin, sickness and death will some day be obliterated from the universe, and are working with the one thought in mind of being among the redeemed, and of bringing others into that company with them."

ary college of Battle Creek, Mich., Class of 1905, receiving his intern experience at the famous Battle Creek sanitarium. He lives with his family at 337 North Isabel street.

In a report rendered to the constituency of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital last July, Dr. Westphal showed the surgical and maternity cases to have greatly increased in the years he has been with the institution, while in every department material increases and developments have been due largely to his active and capable supervision, according to C. E. Kimlin, general manager.

Has Large Staff

"A sanitarium, as I see it, is an up-to-date hotel with the most advanced and complete hospital features," says Dr. Westphal, "an institution where every effort is made to get the patients well and show them how to keep well."

Dr. Westphal has a staff of nine full-time doctors and a total of ninety-six nurses at his command, in the new and beautiful $1,000,000 plant into which the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital has now moved. In addition he has one of the most modern institutions for administering to human ills that exists in the United States, complete down to the minutest detail and the finest institution of its kind on the Pacific coast.

Every one of the 150 rooms is as finely furnished as a room in any leading hotel, and each is equipped for the full medical care of the patient, with many special sanitary features and a dual signaling system, telephones and the Hartung apparatus.

Complete Facilities

The medical facilities of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital include supervising nurses on each floor, service rooms, special elevators, utility rooms, ward rooms, dumb-waiters, pharmacy, operating rooms, anaesthetic rooms, X-ray department, with one of the finest X-ray machines ever built, five different laboratories, diet kitchens, eye, ear, nose and throat department, nurses' department, Dr. Westphal's suite of offices and departments of heliotherapy, physiotherapy and hydrotherapy departments, the latter offering a dozen different varieties of baths.

"The growth of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital demonstrates the interest taken by the public in learning natural methods of getting well and remaining well," says Dr. Westphal. "As people become more interested in themselves from a health standpoint, the demands of this institution will increase in similar ratio."

PAIR CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING AT NEW HOSPITAL

Tie Strengthened Between Glendale and Battle Creek Places

The tie of interest existing between the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital and the Battle Creek Sanitarium in Battle Creek, Michigan, was strengthened again yesterday, on the golden wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. G. Erwin Royce of 1734 Holly drive, father and mother of Mrs. C. E. Kimlin.

It was fifty years ago that Dr. and Mrs. Royce were married in the parlors of the Battle Creek Sanitarium, and yesterday at an afternoon reception at their home near the new Glendale Sanitarium building, Elder R. W. Munson, chaplain of the sanitarium, remarried them before a group of over forty relatives and close friends.

G. Erwin Royce was born in Chautauque county, New York, and when he was nineteen years old he went to Michigan to work in the Battle Creek sanitarium. His ambition was to become a physician, and during his work at the sanitarium, he kept this aim in view.

Bride Was Nurse

Employed as assistant matron and nurse at the institution was Miss Anna Holman Hale, and in 1874 she became the bride of young Royce, their wedding taking place in the parlors of the sanitarium.

She, too, was interested in becoming a doctor, so with her husband she entered the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. She only studied for one year, but her husband graduated in March, 1877, with his doctor's degree.

Dr. and Mrs. Royce had three children. Mrs. Louis Christian is deceased. She left her husband, Elder Louis Christian, in charge of foreign work for the Seventh-day Adventists in Europe, and a daughter, Miss Lois Christian, a teacher in Fresno.

The Royces' living children are Mrs. Myrtle Kimlin, wife of C. E. Kimlin, business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital; and Miss Zoe Royce, also connected with the sanitarium. They have four granddaughters, Misses Christian, Marjorie, Virginia June and Phyllis Elizabeth Kimlin.

Scotch Ancestors

Dr. Royce comes from a line of Scotch and English ancestors. He was the eighth of ten children. His parents and grandparents lived in Vermont and their ancestors came from England, handling down to their descendants the family coat of arms.

His work at the University of Michigan brought him in contact with many noted men and he had as classmates Victor C. Vaughn, dean of the medical faculty at

Mrs. Royce was born in Maine, and is indirectly related to Nathan Hale and U. S. Senator Hale.

Dr. and Mrs. Royce came to Glendale eleven years ago and have had a part in the growth of Glendale. For some time Royce edited a poultry magazine.

He recalls his first visit to Glendale many years ago, when there was but one store, located at the corner of East Wilson and North Glendale avenue.

The World's Record

THE Metropolitan is mutually owned by its 21,000,000 policyholders. Its assets belong to the policyholders. They are accumulated to meet policy obligations and for no other purpose. Every policyholder is a capitalist—an investor—and his interest should be recognized by legislators and commissioners. The policyholders own over $313,000,000 in railroad securities; $606,000,000 in real estate mortgages; $80,000,000 in public utility bonds; $200,000,000 in Government obligations.

One person in every six in the United States and Canada is a holder of a Metropolitan policy—one of the safest forms of investment.

In 1923 the Metropolitan grew faster than any other life insurance company in the world; grew in income—in assets—and in the effectiveness of its campaign for better health for the whole country.

The Metropolitan sends trained nurses to the homes of thousands of Industrial (i. e. weekly premium) policyholders when they are sick. In 1923 these nurses made 2,482,919 visits.

While the average life span in the general population of the United States is 5½ years greater than it was 11 years ago, the life span of the Industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8½ years in the same interval. This greater gain has resulted in large part from the Metropolitan's Health Service.

During 1923 the Metropolitan distributed 33,790,840 booklets and pamphlets dealing with health, general welfare and longer life. The total number of pieces distributed to date amounts to 305,990,507.

The Metropolitan arranges for free periodic health examinations for holders of Ordinary policies. Among those who avail themselves of this privilege, the death rate was found to be 28% lower than was expected for the group.

The Metropolitan cooperates with the companies to which it has issued group insurance for their employees—cooperates not only in giving insurance protection but also to promote better health, better working conditions, better living conditions and happier social conditions.

Life insurance, which cares for the home and family, is born of a deep sense of responsibility. When millions of people join in a mutual sharing of this responsibility the result is the splendid picture shown in the 1923 report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Never before has the world seen such a Business Statement nor had such an opportunity to look into the hearts of men and women, and to find there—Kindness.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D.
Author of Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories

HARTBURN (HYPER-ACIDITY OR HYPER-CHLORHYDRIA)
We all know what heartburn is. It is a feeling of burning in the upper part of the stomach. It is not a disease, but a symptom of a condition. It is caused by an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. This acid is necessary for the digestion of food, but when it is in excess it causes heartburn. The normal gastric juice is quite acid, but the hydrochloric acid secreted by the stomach glands. It is only when this acid is increased in amount or in degree above normal that the symptoms of burning, which we call heartburn, arise. Among the most frequent causes for this excess acid are: indigestion (both a cause and a result); excess eating of protein (especially in meats and fish); cane sugar, condiments, extra hot foods, salt, tea, coffee, alcohol; hurried eating, excess water drinking at meals, over-eating, mental and nervous influences, tobacco, reflex influences from diseases in other parts of the body, especially of the gall bladder or the appendix or the duodenum (the first part of the small intestine). We will discuss each a little.

Excess protein eaters, especially those who eat much meat and fish, are often sufferers from hyperacidity. Protein requires a highly acid juice for its digestion. The acid enters into a combination with the protein; in other words, it "binds" the acid. That is why a meat diet will give temporary relief in these cases, but as the protein trains the gastric glands to an increased production of acid, the relief is temporary. Cane sugar excites the acid-forming glands very markedly. Malt sugar, honey and milk sugar should be substituted for cane sugar, but only moderate amounts of these are to be taken. Condiments such as mustard, pepper, ginger, cloves, spices, vinegar, horse radish and similar substances, excite the acid-secreting glands at first; later, if used excessively, they cause a chronic irritation and a lessening of the gastric secretion. Very hot foods excite the glands and, according to the reports on cases from the Mayo clinics, very hot foods may give rise to inflammations of the mucous membrane, which finally may cause ulcers—which, in turn, may result in cancers. Salt. An excessive amount of salt—sodium chloride—furnishes an excess of the hydrochloric acid, because the hydrochloric acid is made from sodium chloride. So, in hyperacidity, salt should be omitted, or taken in minimum amounts. Tea and coffee, on account of their tannic acid and caffeine, and cocoa and chocolate, on account of their theobromin, also excite the acid-forming glands. Tomorrow—Heartburn, No. II.

Breaded Lamb Chops—Sprinkle lamb chops with salt and pepper, then dip them into bread crumbs, into raw, slightly-beaten egg, and once more into bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat for six to eight minutes, and drain. Serve hot with tomato catsup.
Baked Lentils—Soak two cups of lentils overnight, and in the morning drain well, cover with hot water containing a tiny pinch of baking soda, and let boil for two minutes. Now drain again and mix them with one cup of diced raw celery, one cup of either canned or freshly-steamed tomatoes, four slices of fried bacon finely ground, two thin slices of onion (which are about two inches square) cut in small bits, two large minced raw onions, one teaspoon of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of black pepper and one and one-half teaspoons of salt. Barely cover with hot water, in a baking dish, and bake in a moderate oven for four hours, uncovering the dish during the last half hour. Serve hot.
Italian Rice—Slice one large, peeled onion and fry it slowly in three tablespoons of olive oil, then add five tablespoons of butter and, when it melts, add one and one-half cups of uncooked

TROUBLESOME CHILDREN
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman 22 years old and have been married about five years. My husband is 27 years of age. We have three children, two boys and one girl. The boys are three and four years of age and the girl nine months old. We have had a debate regarding which one of us is the right person to correct the children. Aren't the father and mother both supposed to? And isn't the father supposed to when he is at home? My younger boy is almost uncontrollable. I have whipped him until I am ashamed and it doesn't do a bit of good. He just tries me out. He would mind his father in an instant, but he won't try to make him mind. He says it isn't his place. Just this morning he told me I would have to admit that I had lost control of him, instead of trying to make him mind. Please tell me whether his father is supposed to correct him or not. R. W.
It is much better when the mother and father work together in the matter of discipline. Neither should throw the entire burden on the other. Only too often, however, in this country, the father shirks his responsibility and leaves disciplining to the mother. A mother is so apt to be worn out from constant association with her children so that at times she fails to be just and punishes when she herself is nervous and the child has not really done anything punishable. The father is away from home all day and returns at night with a fairer viewpoint than the mother. Therefore, the co-operation of the father is a great advantage. Personally I think whipping is a weak form of punishment. It antagonizes the child and fills him with bitterness. Probably you would and your little boy more responsive to love. Do not whip him again. Love him more so that he realizes he is dear to your heart.

Beauty Chats

A RED NOSE

There are three causes for a red nose: Skin trouble, tight clothes that interfere with the circulation of the blood, or some form of indigestion. The commonest and hardest difficulty to treat is indigestion; for any stomach trouble had enough to make the blood so thick and impure that it congests in the nose must be very bad indeed, and it will take a long time to go away. There is an ointment, however, which has been frequently recommended for a red nose. It follows:

Powdered Sulphur 1 dram
Powdered Starch 2 1/2 oz.
Zinc Oxide Ointment 1 1/2 oz.
Perfumed Oil 5 drops

The powdered sulphur is the familiar flower of sulphur recommended for the sulphur and molasses springtime tonic, the powdered starch is nothing but laundry starch that you can easily powder yourself by crushing some lumps in a fold of coarse muslin and letting it sift out. Zinc oxide ointment is a well-known skin antiseptic used for treating a different kinds of skin troubles, while the perfumed oil merely does away with any unpleasant odor.

This is not a cure-all, but it has helped hundreds of cases of stubborn red nose, especially when the nose is taken as to diet, etc. Nothing will help a red nose if the cause is pinching eye glasses except to change to some form that does not hold so tightly to the bridge of the nose. You have a constant irritation and a constant pressure on the blood vessels supplying the nose.

Anything that stimulates the circulation of the blood reduces redness of the nose, therefore exercise and loose clothing are to be recommended. Anything which stimulates the circulation locally, such as massage, also helps.

Kiki—As you state that you need to reduce the bust and hips, possibly you are too stout all over, and a general reduction through the diet would be best for you. An exercise for the hips is to lie flat on floor, place arms high

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

Mme. Amalia Besso is the leader of the woman's party of the Fascist movement in Italy. The Above, Frau Adele Schreiber, member of the German Reichstag; below, Mary V. King, candidate for mayor of Boston.

"black shirts" have grown so rapidly that the feminine contingent is almost as important as the men's. Mme. Besso is such a power in Italy that she is sometimes called the "feminine Mussolini."

Miss Jane Scott, associate general secretary of the National Japanese Young Woman's Christian association, has recently arrived in this country to help raise a fund of $250,000 for building new association buildings in Tokyo and Yokohama.

"The Japanese people are not so much worried by the loss of their material possessions as they are by the social aspects of the disaster—the break-up of homes and the disappearance of protecting social conventions," says Miss Scott. "With hundreds of thousands of refugees huddled together in the most primitive quarters, community morale is more likely to take a slump than during the period of actual danger, when the high courage of the Japanese people commanded the respect of the world."

"The government of Japan has requested that the Y. W. C. A., through its health and recreation program, help to make life a little less grim for the girls and women of the refugee camps, and has donated lumber from which the new temporary headquarters have been constructed."

Miss Scott says that with its thousands of raw lumber shacks and corrugated tin roofs, Tokyo today resembles nothing so much as a Montana cow town.

Mrs. Albert Tasi, of Shanghai, China, traveled 8,000 miles to see her husband graduate from Syracuse, N. Y., university at the first January commencement.

They have been separated for four years. Mr. Tasi will return to China, but his wife will not accompany him, as she is going to take her turn at an American education. Mr. Tasi will take care of the children, a boy of 3 and a girl of 5 years old. Mrs. Tasi made the long journey alone, although she speaks very little English.

Heads Teapot Tipping Probe

EDWIN F. LADD, senator from North Dakota, has taken up the gavel of the senate public lands committee which is investigating the oil lease scandal in the place of Irvine Leuroot, senator from Wisconsin, who resigned the chairmanship of the committee because of ill health. Senator Ladd is a progressive, a member of the La Follette group in the senate. Ladd to date has not figured prominently in the investigation and the lead will remain in the hands of Senator Walsh.

Dinner Stories

A minister met a parishioner and asked him the usual question: "Well, John, how are you today?"

"Gey weel, sir; gey weel," replied John, cautiously, "if it wasna for the rheumatism in my right leg."

"Ah, weel, John, be thankful; for there is no mistake you are getting old like the rest of us, and old age does not come alone."

"Auld age, sir," said John. "I wadna like to hear ye. Auld age has naething to do with it. Here's my ither leg just as auld, and it's quite sound and sople yet."

Dr. Marion L. Burton, president of the University of Michigan, speaking at a dinner of the Society of Automotive Engineers, took a facetious fling at a certain type of "brainless" woman.

"At a dinner the other night I whispered to a woman in décolleté at my right: 'My father died last night.'"

"Isn't that delightful!" she answered.

"I wonder," continued Dr. Burton, "will the day ever come in America when intelligent conversation will be in good form?"

Carrying his luggage and his golf clubs, he climbed into an ancient hack and bade the driver, who was an old negro man, take him to the local hotel. The negro eyed the queer looking leather bag that his passenger carried with the peculiar looking sticks in it. His curiosity got the best of him finally.

"Boss," he began, "please, sah, 'scuse me, but mout I ax you a question?"

"Go ahead and ask," said Mr. Hull.

"Wut kind of a lodge is you in-stittutin'?"

A certain clergyman had occasion to preach to the inmates of an insane hospital. During his sermon he noticed that one of the patients paid the closest attention, his eyes riveted upon the preacher's face, his body bent eagerly forward. Such interest was most unusual. After the service, the speaker noticed that the man spoke to the superintendent, so as soon as possible the preacher inquired.

"Didn't that man speak to you about my sermon?"

"Would you mind telling me what he said?"

The superintendent tried to sidestep, but the preacher insisted.

"Well," he said at last, "what the man said was: 'Just think, he's out and I'm in.'"

The sage was discoursing on honest criticism, which, he maintained, was a valuable commodity and all too rare. The grouch was not much interested, says the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

"Let me tell you this item," said the sage. He produced a clipping. "An ounce of honest criticism," he read, "is worth more than a pound of flattery."

The sage sighed.

"How is this, is," he declared.

"Honest criticism may be valuable," responded the grouch, "but there's no market for it."

A college graduate, the day after commencement, swaggered into a bank and asked to see the president. He was told to wait in an anteroom, where a small boy was chewing gum.

"Boy," he said, after a bit, "do you know if there's an opening in the bank for a college graduate?"

The boy, chewing grimly, answered:

"Dere will be if dey don't slip de extra five-spot wot I'm askin' fer in me next pay envelope, see?"

Spur of the Moment

THE LIFE
Do not say that life
Lasts not very long;
Don't say that we vanish—
Like a sound of a song.

Life's lines are pulling through—Ages of sublime;
We're only the follow'rs—
Or once upon a time.

We are carrying the wrath;
Joy and luck we adore;
From thousands of past years—
Lived beyond times before.

And what it will become;
And what it will be;
The time will let us hear;
With our eyes we'll see.

We are well protected
From perish and fall;
It sounds in our presence—
The everlasting call!

—Nathan Cantor.

For some time the papers had been full of Benjamin Franklin's ideas of thrift. These ideas have been interesting and instructive. But after reading all his ideas over again for the fifteenth or twentieth time, we are still inclined to wonder whether Benjamin would not revise some of those ideas if he lived today and had to support a family on the ordinary salary.

Benjamin had a tough time at the start, but he made money and saved it. According to modern standards, we are inclined to believe that he had a cinch. In other words, it is easy to save money when one doesn't have to spend it.

Benjamin Franklin never had to pay 15 to 20 cents of every dollar to the government in form of income tax.

He could go out with a dollar and buy a basketful of meat and groceries.

He never had to pay for electric lights, gas, telephone or hard coal.

He didn't have to support an automobile, buy tires, gasoline and pay garage charges.

He got along without incurring the expense of a radio set.

He did not have to keep his children in a private school because the public school were overcrowded, after he had paid a tax to support the public schools.

He hired servants for a dollar a week or for nothing and room and board. A modern hired girl who is willing to do anything except work gets $20 a week.

Benjamin was a great economist. It would be interesting to see him take a whirl at it today with the ordinary man's salary.

Farmers in Oregon sat down to a dinner which cost 16 cents a plate. The cost per plate was computed at the price which the farmers obtained for the products. When you compare this to the cost of the modern banquet—usually from $5 to $10—and then you have to listen to the speeches, something is wrong somewhere.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WIND

"There is only one way to and answered: 'No, indeed, I'll not hold on a minute—nor even a half minute—nor even a quarter of a second. I'll just hold on to my umbrella and run!'"

And Uncle Wiggily hopped and ran. The Gator ran after him, and was about to catch the rabbit when, all of a sudden, there blew a strong puff of wind. It caught under the rabbit's umbrella, opened it and then the wind lifted Uncle Wiggily, umbrella and all, up in the air, just like a balloon.

The rabbit was so high up in the air that the Alligator ran beneath him, but couldn't reach up high enough to grab him.

"I'll wait until you come down!" cried Gator.

"I'm not coming down!" laughed the bunny. But, after a time, he began to fall, for the wind was puffy and only kept him up a little while.

Down toward the ground he fell, and the Alligator began to smile. But before the bad chap could reach up with his claws and catch the rabbit there came another strong puff of wind. Up high went sailing Uncle Wiggily again.

"Boo, Bah!" howled the Gator. And so it went. Uncle Wiggily was being blown along, over the Gator's head, and the bad chap couldn't catch the rabbit.

Until, at last, the wind blew so hard that it blew the bad Alligator head over tail in a peppermint and somersault and so tangled him up, tying him in a hard knot that he couldn't get his mouth open for a week.

And the wind blew Uncle Wiggily back to his hollow stump bungalow and let him and his umbrella softly down on the front porch.

"Why do you take your umbrella?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Because it might rain," answered the bunny gentleman to his muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Nonsense!" laughed Nurse Jane. "This is March—not April. We have big winds now, but little rain. If you take your umbrella with you the wind may blow it to tatters, or even sweep it out of your paws!"

"Um! Yes, maybe," agreed the rabbit uncle. "But I'll keep a tight hold of my umbrella. And, after all, it might rain instead of blow."

"Suit yourself," said Nurse Jane with a sniff of her tail. For well she knew Uncle Wiggily would do as he pleased, anyhow. And he did. He went out with his umbrella.

The wind was blowing very hard that day—a regular March wind, which needs must blow to bring Spring back from the Sunny South where it stays all Winter.

"My goodness, Nurse Jane was right! It is going to blow and blow hard!" thought Uncle Wiggily as soon as he got outside his hollow stump bungalow. "She was right, but it would never do to let her know that! I'll keep right on with my umbrella!"

So, holding tightly to the handle, Uncle Wiggily stepped down off the steps. And, as he did so, the Skillery Scallery Alligator, who was hiding in the bushes, saw the bunny uncle and began to run after him.

"Hold on! Wait a minute!" bellowed the Gator, rushing along after the rabbit.

Uncle Wiggily looked back, and when he saw who it was chasing him he started to run.

of chattering. He claims that gossiping is due to excited nerves. If the good doctor finds that this announcement packs his audience with middle-aged husbands, he will not be surprised. This time also he announces that he smokes thirty cigarettes a day and enjoys them and they do him good. Thus the smoking gentry will not absent themselves from his audiences. Truly the good doctor is an amazing psychologist. He is one of the few Europeans in recent years who have known how to make themselves truly welcome.

SONG OF A COUNTRY CREDITOR
"Dear Sir—I rec'd your letter about what I owes you. Now be patient. I ain't forgot you, and as folks pays me I'll pay you, but if this was judgement day and you was no more prepared to meet your maker than I am to meet your account, then you would go to hades. Good buy.—"Bill Jones."

Who's the Fall guy in the Teapot Dome inquiry

Wait a minute! bellowed the Gator.

steps, not harmed in the least. "The wind was very kind to me," laughed the bunny, as he closed the umbrella and went in to lunch.

And if the bell in the clock doesn't strike the hands and make them act like a merry-go-round, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the bitter bottle.

dent teachers; a number of other instructors who taught special subjects came out from Los Angeles on certain days.

"Miss Ruth Byram, who was a pupil at St. Hilda's, kindly furnished the writer of this history with a copy of the 'register' of the school for 1893-4. At that time Miss K. V. Darling was the principal. The 'corps of teachers' as published in this 'register' is an impressive one, indicating that the institution was prepared to teach the pupils everything that was deemed necessary to equip the young ladies for high and useful stations in this life. The frontpiece of the 'register' is an excellent picture of the seminary building as it then appeared, surrounded by trees and shrubbery, occupying only two or three years old.

"The school was continued after having been conducted about four years by the Episcopal diocese of Southern California, not having been a financial success.
It was, however, a valuable asset to the community in which it was located, being a leading influence in shaping the moral, religious and social life of the people. Rev.
John D. Easter, while connected with the institution, was active in local affairs and, being a man of high educational endowments, and a public speaker of ability, achieved general popularity.

"The hotel building, which, after being vacated as a seminary, remained in the possession of Keeper R. G. Doyle, who occupied it until it passed into the possession of the Battle Creek people in 1904. This building, and about five acres of ground, had been bought by J. A. Merrill, in connection with other property acquired at the same time as told elsewhere; he sold it to L. C. Brand for $10,000 cash and Brand sold it to the Battle Creek institute for $12,000.

"There were no other improvements of any consequence in the neighborhood of what is now
Broadway and Glendale avenue.
A small frame building stood on the southwest corner which had been used as a depot and real estate offices in the latter days of the 'boom' (1887), but it remained vacant from that time until removed."

Institution Needed
In writing directly of the purchase of the hotel by the Seventh-day Adventists, and the work done in it as a sanitarium, Mr. Sherer in his book says: "While boasting of a climate that is in itself life-giving, there are ills that even a genial climate cannot cure, and as long as humanity continues to fall heir to them, the sick and the unfortunate victims of bodily misfortunes generally, must be cared for by those trained in this blessed service, and institutions must be provided where the healing forces of nature may be aided by such treatment as the long experience of mankind may suggest and the latest discoveries of science may be applied."

Then under the heading, "Glendale Sanitarium," Mr. Sherer says: "This has been a Glendale institution since 1905 (really it was purchased in 1904), when the Educator

DR. WALTER F. DEXTER,
president of Whittier college,
who was to have delivered an address at the Sanitarium dedication.

Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier college, Whittier, is one of the youngest American educators to occupy such a prominent position. He graduated from Penn college, Iowa, in 1916 and did post-graduate work at Columbia university, New York,
later earning the degree of Ph.D.
at Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass.

Dr. Dexter is serving his first year as president of Whittier college. Himself a member of the Friends' church, he has proved a very able executive and is just preparing to launch a construction campaign that has for its object the building of a new boys' dormitory and a big new gymnasium at the institution.

Last summer Dr. Dexter taught at the University of Virginia Yom-mer school. He has proved to be a very popular president of Whittier college and big things are expected from him in the next few years. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity.

President

ELDER J. L. McELHANY, president of the Pacific Union conference and supervisor of all Adventist institutions throughout California, Utah, Arizona and Nevada, a resident of Glendale, living at 318 North Isabel street.

Elder J. L. McElhany, re-elected president of the Pacific Union conference of Seventh-Day Adventists on Tuesday afternoon, March 18, by the unanimous vote of the delegates attending the quadrant session of the union in Fresno, is a resident of Glendale, living at 318 North Isabel street.

The re-election of Elder Mc-Elhany to this important post means that for the next four years he will be supervisor of all the churches, academies, colleges and other features of the denominational work, throughout California, Utah, Arizona and Nevada.
The office is to the Adventist what a bishop would be in the Methodist or Episcopal church.
Elder McElhany was elected president of the Union conference for the first time about two years ago, having been called from the presidency of the Greater New York conference.

Make Fine Progress
Under his administration all branches of the denomination on the Pacific coast have made remarkable progress. Hundreds of new converts have been added to the church membership rolls;
the time which is used for the support of the ministry and advancement of the church in the home field, has increased in a most remarkable manner, and its offerings to missions stand at the head of all other union conferences throughout the world.
The presidency of the Pacific Union conference, Elder McElhany was president of the District of Columbia conference, with headquarters in Washington D. C. When elected president of the District conference he had just returned to the United States from the Philippine islands, where he had been a pioneer missionary for the denomination.

Battle Creek people bought the Glendale hotel property on Broadway and established a sanitarium founded on the principles of the practices of the parent institution at Battle Creek, Mich. The Glendale Sanitarium has not only been very successful as a place where the physically afflicted have been successfully treated, but in the years in which Glendale was sorely in need of a hotel furnishing accommodations amid quiet surroundings, this sanitarium to quite a considerable extent furnished a temporary home for numbers of tourists who could not find elsewhere in the community, the home accommodations that they desired. From which statement it appears that the patrons of this establishment have not always remained there for the treatment of their physical ills, but often made it their temporary home while looking around for a place in which to establish for themselves a dwelling place in Southern California, and not infrequently choosing to remain in Glendale.
It has also upon many occasions been thrown open to the public for meetings of various kinds, requiring facilities for entertainment which no other place in the city could supply. The Chamber of Commerce has used its spacious dining room for more than one delightful banquet, political candidates have received the public
there, and various organizations have been permitted to hold as-semblies there on special occasions. From which it will be apparent that the Glendale Sanitarium has filled a unique place in the life of Glendale and its rapid expansion in recent years, widely advertised as it has been, has been an important factor in making Glendale known to the outside world.

Hospital Enlarged
The hospital features of the institution have been amplified
during the past two or three years, new buildings being erected and modern features added that have rendered its equipment in that line equal to the best found in the larger cities.

"The institution is owned and controlled, as it has been since its establishment, by the Seventh-day Adventists, the manager for the past several years being C. E.
Kimlin. About a year ago a new site was purchased on the hillside east of Verdugo road and north of Wilson avenue, which affords a magnificent outlook over the valley. This site consists of twenty-eight acres of land upon which is now being constructed a magnificent building over 400 feet in length to be equipped with special features for the treatment of patients in accordance with the

Veterans Opposing Land Colony Scheme

SACRAMENTO, March 24.— Following conferences with former service men throughout the state, George Stout, secretary of the State Veterans' Welfare board, said the veterans were overwhelmingly opposed to the establishment of a state land colony for ex-service men similar in scope to the Durham and Delhi projects.

Opinion among service men is practically unanimous that the $1,000,000 voted by the legislature for a colony should be devoted to the purchase of individual farms for veterans.

The board will meet in Sacramento, April 11, to determine whether or not the land settlement project will be continued.

Women Write Heir to Large Fortune

LODI, March 24.—Bert Worth of this city, who recently inherited a large fortune in England, is in receipt of numerous letters from total strangers.
A woman in Washington writes that she is so pleased with his good fortune that she "can hardly sleep." She extends an invitation to spend a week fishing. Another woman in Oregon writes that she is a widow and aspi-rator. She starts the story, declaring, show the fortune is much larger than Worth is inclined to believe.

Methods in vogue in these sanitariums in various places throughout the United States, and it is where will such equipment excel that of the Glendale plant, nor the surroundings be so nearly ideal.
The cost of the improvements that have been begun will reach half a million dollars, with anticipated possibilities for expansion that will in time far exceed this sum."

Manager Appointed
Just as Mr. Sherer says, when the Adventists located in this city
there was considerable open space on all sides of them, yet they felt that this was the city in which they should locate. Elder John A.
Burden, who had just recently returned from Australia, where he had been connected with an Adventist sanitarium in that continent, was elected the first business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium. He, also being an advocate of the gospel,

looked after the ministerial work
in connection with the institution, and also gathered the little company of sanitarium employees together for daily worship and Sabbath services. Elder Burden, who is now manager of the Paradise Valley Sanitarium, an Adventist institution located at National City, near San Diego, remained for two years, and then went to Loma Linda to become the first manager of the new sanitarium that was being started there.

He was succeeded by John J.
Wessels, who came from South Africa. Mr. Wessels remained manager for three years. In Africa he was connected with the Cape Town Sanitarium. W. Ray Simpson, the husband of Dr. Abbie Winegar Simpson, the first medical superintendent of the Glendale institution, was appointed Mr.
Wessels' successor, and he was followed by Harmon W. Lindsay, who remained four years. Mr.
Lindsay had been a teacher in an Adventist college in South Africa.
Dr. V. H. Lucas was his successor, and remained one year, being succeeded by C. E. Kimlin, the present manager. Mr. Kimlin assumed his office eight years ago last December.

Medical Officers
There is just as interesting a history concerning the medical superintendents of the institution.
In those days, physicians trained by Adventist methods and in harmony with the spirit of the movement, were not as plentiful as they are today. The denomination had no medical college from which to draw recruits such as it has in the College of Medical Evangelists at Loma Linda today, and physicians as a rule were secured from sister sanitariums in different parts of the world, principally from Battle Creek, where their first sanitarium was established.

Dr. Simpson came here from Battle Creek, and then opened a sanitarium of her own in Long Beach. She is now living near Burbank, having retired from active practice. Other physicians who followed her were Dr. Frank Zilinski, Dr. P. S. Kellogg, Dr.
Milton M. Kay, Dr. Julia A. White, who also came from Battle Creek,
and who is still on the medical staff. Drs. Anthony A. Comstock and his wife, Belle Wood Comstock, who remained about ten years, leaving in 1916. Dr. Howard F. Rand, and Dr. H. G. Westphal, who has been the medical director for the last five years.

Three years after the hotel was purchased Business Manager Simpson conceived the idea of building a gymnasium. This was one story high, which later had two more stories added to it, and has since been used as an annex.
The first improvement, however,
was the erection of the girls' dormitory in 1906. Other improvements have been made, the biggest and most expensive being the hospital on the Wilson avenue side, which takes up about one-third of the ground space originally purchased.

Santee President
When the property was purchased, Elder Clarence Santee was president of the Southern California Conference, and by virtue of his office was elected president of the board of directors of the institution. Other board presidents have included Elders G. W. Reas-er, who has been a resident of Glendale since 1905, and has given much of the information contained in this sketch. E. E. An-dross, F. M. Burg, B. E. Beddoe, M. H. Hare and W. Milton Adams, the present president.

Head Nurse

MRS. DAISY D. HARRIS, R. N., superintendent of nurses at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital for the past five years and a graduate of the training school of the institution.

Mrs. Daisy D. Harris, R. N., came to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital in June of 1917, to take her last year of training, and graduated from the Training School for Nurses the following June.

After a year as head nurse she took the position she now holds as superintendent of nurses, in which capacity she superintends the nurses in training as well as those on the staff. She has seen the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital more than double in growth during her years with the institution and has seen the Training School of Nurses expand in like proportion, from an enrollment of forty nurses when she came to over eighty at the present time.

Has 12 On Staff
Mrs. Harris had but one assistant when she first took the position as superintendent of nurses. Her staff now numbers twelve. She came to Glendale from Santa Rosa, where for a number of years she had been a teacher in an Adventist school. Previously she had been a teacher in a Bakersfield school of that denomination.

Mrs. Harris is a native of Kentucky and a graduate of a Missouri state normal college. She entered the nursing profession with a rich background of practical experience, which goes far in accounting for the success she has had at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. She is a member of the League of Nursing Education and the American Nurses' association.

Last year Mrs. Harris attended the state convention of nurses held in Santa Barbara and two years ago was present at the joint convention of the three national nursing organizations, held in Seattle, Wash. She hopes to attend the annual convention
this year in Detroit, Mich.

Necessarily meant the employment of more people. New families continued to come in response to invitations sent by the management to different parts of the world until today, the Seventh-day Adventists in Glendale represent practically every state in the union, every province in Canada, and many of the foreign countries.
There are 1000 adherents to the church in this city. Many of them have contributed their share toward the development of the city.
They have come here not only with high religious ideals, but are public spirited citizens. They believe in good government, and contribute toward it. They believe in living in the modern way, and the houses they have erected attest to this fact.

Their coming to Glendale can be traced originally to the purchase of the sanitarium twenty years ago, and now that the new sanitarium is a well established fact the vast majority of these people will remain, and many of the families will be represented on the pay roll of the new institution.

Fame Is Wide-Spread
The fame of the institution has literally spread over the earth, the delightful climate has contributed much to it, and it can be predicted without fear of contradiction that the new institution will continue to lend its influence toward the constant growth of Glendale, and the surrounding country.

The Glendale Seventh-day Adventist church, which is an outgrowth of the sanitarium, has a seating capacity of 750, and seats are always at a premium during the Sabbath services. The officers of the church are thinking seriously about a new building that can accommodate more persons, and other improvements in the neighborhood of the new sanitarium of no mean proportions are now in contemplation. That the Adventists have come to stay in Glendale there is not the slightest doubt.

Many notable patients have been restored to health in the old sanitarium, and they have voluntarily advertised the institution over the American continent.
George Wharton James, the author of "God's Great Outdoors," and numerous stories of life in the wilds, as well as Indian legends, was a constant patron. He believed in the Adventist methods of treating the sick, and had his last illness in the denominational sanitarium at St. Helena, about sixty-eight miles north of San Francisco.

Judge Shaw and other members of the California judiciary have been patients here. L. C. Brand frequently takes treatments, and so does his wife. Prominent doctors have gone away with renewed vigor, world-wide travelers have told of its fame in China, Africa, and Europe, and in every section of our own great country.

APPROVE PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING

Cities to Spend Large Sums to Provide Enlarged Medical Service

Public health nursing received a strong endorsement from the Committee on Municipal Health Department Practice of the American Public Health Association in the report just issued on the results of an investigation of health conditions in eighty-three American cities. According to the prediction of Prof. Allen W. Freeman of Johns Hopkins university, a member of the committee, all properly equipped health departments, in future, will spend half of their total appropriation on the visiting nurse service.

At present, it is said that the proportion of the total budget allocated to this service is relatively small. Thirty-nine cities only, out of 83, reported a specific fund for public health nursing, the average per capita for the group being 9 1/2 cents. Seven of the cities reported an expenditure of between 10 and 20 cents per capita, and four an expenditure of over 20 cents. They were Birmingham, Detroit, Akron and Utica.

Co-operation Shown
The committee called special attention to the notable examples of cooperation between private organizations doing public health nursing and various local health departments, mention being made of Indianapolis, Louisville and Rochester. "Cooperation between the health department and a private agency is exemplified in the infant welfare work of Boston,
the tuberculosis work of Denver and Omaha, and the admirably organized East Harlem Health Center of New York," the report states.

The visits reported by the committee varied in the cities included in the investigation but an average was placed at 1,535 per year per nurse for private organizations giving bedside care and 1,693 for health departments, whose nurses were said to be limited in the majority of cities, to instructive work.

Superiority Shown Attention was called to the superiority of nursing facilities provided in New England cities.
This was said to be due to the providing public health nursing in that section of the country.
The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, notably, maintains more than 300 nursing services in that territory.

The study, which brought to light many important facts on public health work, was financed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The committee through the U. S. Public Health Service Committee is planning to make additional surveys and to resurvey the cities already visited.

Raises Funds

ELDER G. W. REASER, president of the Southern California conference and for the last four years financial agent for the Pacific Union conference, who has raised $1,000,000 in funds for Adventist institutions, a resident of Glendale, living at 121 North Adams street.

Elder G. W. Reaser, who lives at 121 North Adams street, has been a resident of Glendale since 1905 and is one of the oldest advent elders in the denomination, preceding Elder W. Milton Adams
as president of the Southern California conference. He has for the past four years been financial agent for the Pacific Union conference and has been directly responsible for raising over $1,000,- 000 in funds for the various Adventist institutions along the west coast.

Particularly were his efforts of great assistance in financing construction of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, states C. E.
Kimlin, general manager of the institution. As business manager of the Southern California conference, he is a member of the board of the great new plant.

Elder Reaser entered the ministry in 1895, in Oakland, after being engaged for ten years in the publishing business. In the following year he was ordained and in 1901 he went to Africa
as a missionary, becoming president of two conferences there. In 1903
he returned and the following year became pastor of the Portland, Ore., Adventist church.

In 1905 Elder Reaser was called to Los Angeles and became president of the Southern California conference and president of the board of directors of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.
There followed years of work

HERE IT IS

At last an Electric Washer that you can afford to buy—$50.00 less than other standard makes. Good looking? You'll say so. Pure white enamel and nickel trimmings; has the drop-head wringer; folds up into a flat top cabinet that occupies least space in any out-of-the-way corner. The New Liberty is a wonderful machine. Why be without a washer when you can have one of your own at the amazingly low price of $117.50? This is the first time in our history that a direct factory arrangement has made possible our determination to put a washer within the reach of every home. It was a hard battle, but we brought home the bacon to Glendale. Now it is up to you.

$50.00 LESS

Think of that for a standard Electric Washer with a drop-head wringer, white enamel cabinet, solid rubber casters, white lacquered solid copper tub, automobile disc clutch, ball bearing mechanism, steel frame construction. No oiling, no noise, no grease—all satisfaction.

For $117.50 Cash

During our 30 day campaign you can have a New Liberty in your home with a $5.00 down payment and a year given you to pay the balance. No, we do not give you a year's supply of soap, but we save you $50.00 to spend as you please. In addition to this wonderful saving the first twelve purchasers will receive a chance on a beautiful automobile which is on exhibition in our window.

TWO INJURED AS CAR HITS TRUCK AT BUSY CORNER

Los Angeles Men Taken to Hospital After Crash, Cut and Bruised

Alber Alvarez, 7641 Alameda street, and J. A. Perez, 8414 Hickory street, both of Los Angeles, were severely injured yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock, when the car which Alvarez was driving crashed into a Harris & Hull truck driven by G. Jovin, at San Fernando road and Brand boulevard. The car in which they were riding was badly smashed, and they were taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital in the Jewel City Undertaking company's ambulance. They had received bad cuts about the head, and numerous body bruises.

From the reports of the officers detailed to investigate, it appeared that the two men were driving on the wrong side of the street.

Arm Is Broken
Lester Ashcroft, 2754 Colorado boulevard, Eagle Rock, was brought to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital Saturday afternoon, suffering from a broken arm received in an automobile accident on the hill in front of Griffith park on Los Feliz road.

As the accident occurred in Los Angeles, no investigation was made by the local police.

Hatfield Battles With Elements to Produce Rain

HANFORD, March 24.—Despite the fact that rain clouds hovering over northern California poured down a generous precipitation of moisture, none came to this district to answer the gassing of the atmosphere by "Rain-Maker" Charles M. Hatfield, of Glendale, today. The sky Sunday was practically cloudless and there were no evidences of showers being in sight. Hatfield and his assistants however, were reported still "optimistic" that the rainmaking apparatus would attract sufficient rainfall to win the $8000 posted by farmers near Coalinga.

PAINTINGS SHOWN IN LOCAL STORES

Exhibits in Art Display Includes Pictures by Glendale Artists

A list of the paintings by local artists that are to be on display this week in the show windows on Brand boulevard is not yet complete, as several artists were delayed in bringing in their work. Included in the partial list is the portrait of Lincoln by Mrs. Nellie M. Horne of Tujunga, at the Glendale Music Store, 109 North Brand boulevard; "Springtime" by John W. Cotton, at Williams' Dry Goods Store.

BURGLARS ENTER FIVE HOMES IN WEEK-END RAID

Loot Ranges From Radio Set To $100 Canadian Bond, Clues Are Lacking

Five burglaries were reported to the police over the week-end, the loot ranging from a radio set to a Canadian government bond. Burglars entered the residence of Dr. Siawson, 1482 East Wilson, by jimmying a rear window. As far as he could ascertain, they were scared away without obtaining anything.

Mr. Rhode, of 1004 Cornell drive, reported that thieves had forced his living room window Saturday night, and had thoroughly ransacked two bedrooms. The only thing missing was a wrist watch. He was of the opinion he stated, that he had surprised the burglars by returning home, and thought they were in the house and made their escape through a rear window as he came in the front door.

Canadian Bond Taken
E. P. Conley of 1511 South Adams street reported the loss of a pair of English binoculars and a diamond locket. The house had been ransacked by the intruders. The heaviest loss reported was sustained by H. B. Fleishman, 1313 Cambridge drive, whose home was entered Saturday evening. A large amount of jewelry, $7 in money, a violin and a Canadian government bond, valued at $100, were missing. As in the other cases, entrance was gained by forcing a window.

William Scott, 353 Honolulu avenue, Montrose, offers a reward for the return of a three tube No. 5 Kennedy radio set stolen from his house Saturday night. He has no clue to the identity of the thieves.

CHILD BAPTIZED
John A. Carey, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Carey, 1305 South Glendale avenue, was baptized Sunday afternoon, March 22, at the family home by Rev. C. R. Norton.

EXPECTS MEET TO BE BEST IN CLUB'S HISTORY

District President Confers With Committee Heads On Various Plans

Predictions that the twenty-third annual convention of the Los Angeles district, California Federation of Women's clubs, April 8, 9 and 10 at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, will be the finest in the history of the district, were made Saturday by Mrs. Charles H. Toll, district president, at the meeting of Tuesday Afternoon club officers and board members and convention chairmen at the clubhouse.

"Education for Peace" is to be the theme of the convention, and in outlining the convention program Mrs. Toll instructed every chairman that the work of her committee should be so perfectly planned that it would fit harmoniously into the general convention plan.

She expressed praise of the cooperation given by the convention committees of the Tuesday Afternoon club and sincerely thanked the club officers and members for the help they are giving in plans for the district gathering. She also took occasion to compliment Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, on her club organization, mentioning specially the capability displayed by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president, in serving as president during Mrs. Campbell's absence.

Luncheon Is Feature
Mrs. Toll mentioned as the feature events of the convention the annual dinner and the press luncheon.

Already eight reservations have been made for the press luncheon. Newspaper women will be interested in knowing that a room in the John Robert White home at North Central and West Lexington drive will be at their disposal during the convention, and they can prepare copy there.

David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Leland Stanford university, is announced as one of the convention speakers.

WEDDING RECALLS DAYS OF ROMANCE

chose to have their wedding there because of the historic and romantic connection with the Verdugo family and because the Catholic church does not permit weddings in the church during Lent.

Mama Nanita Absent
In the wedding celebration there was but one blight and that was the rain, for it prevented "Mama Nanita's" being a member of the wedding party.

For weeks she has been talking of the wedding and on Friday she opened the old camphor wood trunk, she had received as a wedding present, to pick out the dress she would wear. But the rain spoiled her plans and she spent the day in her little Montrose home dreaming of her own wedding 103 years ago at the San Gabriel mission and of the two weeks' celebration following.

This event of over a century ago was not overlooked at the wedding yesterday, for a heavy blue china platter and wonderful linen tablecloth "Mama Nanita" had received as wedding gifts, were used on the bride's table at the wedding dinner.

Miss Verdugo had planned for an outdoor wedding with the wonderful old rose tree as a canopy under which the bridal party held within doors.

Ceremony at Noon
The ceremony was performed at 12 o'clock by Judge William Northrup of Alhambra, who had married the bride's parents twenty-two years ago.

Just at the hour for the ceremony the Lohengrin wedding march was played on the piano by Dan Verdugo, a cousin of the bride.

Miss Verdugo chose for members of the bridal party five of her cousins.

Miss Malvina Verdugo was maid of honor and was the first member of the bridal party to appear. She wore a gown of orchid georgette crepe and carried an arm bouquet of sweetpeas in shades harmonizing with her gown.

Next came the ring bearer and flower girl, William Verdugo and Evelyn Adams, each 5 years old. William wore a cunning sailor suit and carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

Evelyn wore a frock of honey dew taffeta and carried a basket of rose petals from the old rose tree.

Bride Is Charming
Miss Verdugo was a picture of loveliness as she entered with her father, Pedro S. Verdugo. Her Castilian beauty was emphasized by her bridal gown of white georgette crepe, made in basque effect, with train, and trimmed with maribou. Her bridal bouquet was a shower of white sweetpeas and fern. A wreath of orange blossoms held her long veil, which fell to the floor. In memory of her mother, now deceased, Miss Verdugo wore a diamond and jet brooch, which belonged to her mother.

The train bearer was little Eleanor Verdugo of San Gabriel, who appears in the Mission Play. She Had "Mama Nanita" been present there would have been four generations of the Verdugo family, represented by mothers and daughters. There were present "Mama Nanita's" daughter, Mrs. Raphaela Urquidez; her daughter, Mrs. Maria Pettitt, and her daughter, Miss Charlotte Pettitt.

Little Evelyn Adams, the flower girl, daughter of O. B. Adams, represents the fifth generation of the Verdugo family.

Mrs. Lugo and her cousin, Miss Malvina Verdugo, who attended as maid of honor, were the only unmarried cousins in the family, and rumors are that yesterday's wedding will be followed by another in the near future.
